Soviets Smashing Germans' Attempt To Hold Budapest

Yugoslav Armies on Frontier Of Austria, Reports State

LONDON, Jan. 5 (AP).—The Red Army reported tonight that it had smashed back powerful German counter-attacks northeast of Budapest for the fourth straight day of a great tank, airplane and infantry battle. To the southwest the Soviets' Yugoslav allies announced they were fighting on the soil of Austria after crossing the Styrian frontier.

As the entire Eastern Front appeared to be stirring in preparation for great Winter operations, Berlin reported new Russian thrusts 720 miles south of Warsaw which may herald an all-out Soviet offensive on that long-dormant front.

Inside flaming Budapest, Russian storm troops seized another 233 blocks from bitter-end Axis defenders to hoist the total in their possession to more than 1,500, and they reported in their midnight communique from Moscow that they had captured another 2,400 German and Hungarian soldiers.

In the furious battle 20 miles northwest of the Hungarian capital, where a German army of at least six armored divisions and several infantry divisions was declared to be attempting to crash through to relieve the encircled Budapest forces, the Russians reported successfully repulsing "a number of heavy attacks" by both infantry and tanks.

Moscow announced that on Thursday and yesterday 31 German tanks and 29 German planes were destroyed, bringing the toll of the first three days of battle to at least 169 tanks and 87 planes.

The German account of the Russian thrusts against German lines south of Warsaw said they were launched from the Soviet Vistula River bridgehead west of Baranov, where the Red Army is known to have massed much power.

The German commentator, Von Oldberg, predicted that "the storm may break at any moment now along the whole Eastern Front."

Leftist Force Withdrawing From Athens

Move Taken to Mean End of Civil War

ATHENS, Jan. 5 (CP-Reuters).—Troops of the Left-Wing E.L.A.S. have withdrawn from Athens and were reported tonight also to be pulling out of the nearby port of Piraeus.

The airfield forces of the E.A.M. (political organization) were said to be heading along three main roads to nearby mountain country.

The E.L.A.S. withdrawal, apparently signifying an end of the civil warfare that has plagued Athens for the last month, followed a declaration by the new Greek government and entertainment to those beyond the range of the Allied Expeditionary Forces warnings and to counter the German "Mary of Arnhem" program which has recently been broken in from B.B.C. transmissions to put over subtle enemy propaganda.

Field Marshal Sir Bernard Montgomery, who has been placed in command of the four armies north of the Belgian bulge, which amounts to grouping most of the United States First and Ninth Armies with his British Second and Canadian First Armies, is here shown conferring with Major-General H. W. Foster, of Winnipeg, somewhere in the Western Front.

"Monty" Takes Command In Belgian Bulge

Canadian Troops On New Station

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP-Reuters).—Forward troops of the British Second and Canadian First Armies listening to the radio Sunday will hear for the first time Station BLA4, a new army welfare service designed to bring closer news and entertainment to those beyond the range of the Allied Expeditionary Forces wavelengths and to counter the German "Mary of Arnhem" program which has recently been broken in from B.B.C. transmissions to put over subtle enemy propaganda.

Canadians in Italy Advance

ROME, Jan. 5 (CP-Reuters).—Canadian armor and infantry, with British armor and the British 56th Infantry Division, made marked progress tonight against the left wing of Field Marshal Kesselring's line thrown across the Po Valley.

Edging up toward Lake Comacchio, Canada-supported Canadian troops reached the Bonifica Canal, one and a half miles southwest of Alfonsine, after crossing the town of Hemme in an attack led by flame-throwing tanks, and British troops attacked Mezzano, north of Verrio.

The German news agency claimed the Canadians attacked Hemme, about seven miles northwest, of Filetargo, entered and that the price of heavy casualties succeeded in penetrating to the ruins of the town.

A report to the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter from its correspondent said the German forces were expecting a full-scale British offensive in the Nijmegen sector and that civilians, including entire families, were being drafted to build defence positions in Westphalia.

Carmen to Stand By Committee on Threat to Strike

Union Officials State No Change From General Order

VANCOUVER, Jan. 5 (CP).—R. K. Gervin, publicity chairman of the Street Railwaymen's Union (A.F.L.), said union members who attended two meetings held in Vancouver today voted unanimously to stand with the union advisory board regarding a situation which may see 2,700 employees of the British Columbia Electric Railway walk out early Tuesday. Union officials said the strike threat is still on until a satisfactory reply is received from the National War Labor Board at Ottawa.

Charles Stewart, chairman of the advisory council, said that Federal Government officials were in error in interpreting a wire from him as canceling a strike threat Mr. Stewart said his telegram did not cancel a union decision to strike Tuesday in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster in protest against a War Labor Board ruling refusing to give the B.C.E.R. workers requested wage increases and improved working conditions.

A news telegram from Ottawa said Mr. Stewart's wire canceled previous messages in which strike action had been threatened if the board failed to change its decision rejecting union demands.

Delegates leaving the street Railwaymen's Union meeting here today told reporters the decision to begin a strike Tuesday was still in effect. "We all out and stand, brothers" was the delegates' "you walk."

"Another delegate said the union executive cannot call off the strike because only the membership can do that. "This thing has gone to

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published on The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1945, by Beechey Co.)

LONDON, Jan. 5.—No sign of a general withdrawal by the Germans from their western front in Belgium is visible, says The Times' military correspondent, who concludes that Von Rundstedt is going to fight it out—finish where his troops now stand.

Indeed, the whole character of the Nazi defence is aggressive, and their base brought up additional armored units to hold Gen. Patton's offensive in the Bastogne area.

The United States Seventh Army points out The Times' Paris correspondent, no longer holds positions on German soil between Saarlautern and the Rhine. It is already back at the Maginot Line where so far there is no sign of withdrawal.

The Germans have pressed across Holland into it in Pas-de-Calais. The Times' correspondent, the enemy has plenty of light left in him, and put another offensive on his part is not impossible.

Gen. Pilafkos' Government in Greece has outlined a short-term policy for restoration of order and punishment of collaborators with the Germans. But it has done nothing so far to further the National Liberation Army to lay down its arms.

That army's leaders want a truce and have appealed in the reason to all, but Soviet according to The Times diplomatic correspondent, still insists on disarmament first. The deadlock, therefore, continues, and so does the fighting.

Editorially The Times declares as long as this fighting persists no real industrial reconstruction can be resumed by any Government. Certainly a British victory and the National Front Bill offer no solution. What is needed says The Times, is first, a truce, then, creation of a representative Government, including members of the resistance movement.

General Plastiras has not been able to get together such a cabinet, and so it proposes to itself no permanent settlement. It is completely divorced from the National Liberation Army.

The crux of the military dead-lock could appear to be that while

Report Canadian Troops on Move

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP).—German reports suggested today that the Allied confirmation — that British and Canadian troops were on the move again near Nijmegen, Holland, and the Canadians taking the town of Hemme in an attack led by flame-throwing tanks, and British forces attacking Mezzano, north of Verrio.

The German news agency claimed the Canadians attacked Hemme, about seven miles northwest, of Filetargo, entered and that the price of heavy casualties succeeded in penetrating to the ruins of the town.

A report to the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter from its correspondent said the German forces were expecting a full-scale British offensive in the Nijmegen sector and that civilians, including entire families, were being drafted to build defence positions in Westphalia.

1,000 Bombers Strike Reich

LONDON, Jan 5 (CP- The R.A.F. sent more than 1,000 bombers against Germany tonight, staging dual attacks on two targets, and R.C.A.F. heavy bombers shared in the most powerful of the blows—that directed against Hannover.

Some 750 R.A.F. Halifaxes pounded this big industrial city in the first attack and a smaller force of Lancasters delivered a follow-up blow a short time later

A strong force from the Canadian bomber group took part. Its first battering of Hannover, a city of 500,000 population.

Built Mosquito bombers, for the second night in a row hammered twice at Berlin dropping 4,000-pound bombs on the German capital.

Allied air forces, taking advantage of a quick improvement in the weather also were busy in daylight with more than 1,000 United States heavy bombers, escorted by more than 900 fighters, paving the way for visit attacks by mounting German communications centres and railyards in Mannheim, Offenburg and Saarbrucken.

The bombs smashed at more than 20 targets behind the German lines in an area extending from Cologne to Karlsruhe and east beyond Frankfurt, and United States strategic air forces headquarters, classified the places bombed as all-important points along the enemy supply routes to the Western Front."

Russia Accepts Lublin Regime

LONDON Jan 5 (CP- Russia today announced recognition of the Polish Provisional Government of Lublin, making a total to break with the Polish Government in London, which still is recognized by Britain and the United States.

Bringing to a head one of the thornmost questions facing the impending Big Three parley the Moscow announcement came within an hour of the Polish Government in London's refusal to accept a principle which will lead to its dissolution both here and in Lublin, Poland.

Authoritative British sources said the Moscow move was considered a definite surprise and in no way affected British recognition of the London-Polish Government.

The new step, announced in a communique said it is a matter of recognized fact that there has been correspondence between the United States, Britain and Russia on the subject, but it has not been possible to agree."

WASHINGTON, Jan 5 (CP- The defense Reid has been lost in Germany action in the Philippine area the United States Navy announced today. No announcements was made as to extent of casualties.

Allies Now Have Secret Weapon

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP)—It was disclosed tonight that the Allies had unlimited use of a secret artillery weapon for the first time on a large scale and shattered German counter-attacks trying to stem the First Army's advance.

Details of the weapon, developed by the United States Navy, were kept secret. It cut to pieces German counter-attacks which were launched against the northwest corner of the bulge around Bastogne. The snow was strewn with the bodies of German dead.

Tie-Up of Coach Lines Buses Begins

Drivers Decide On "Protest Walk-Out"

A complete tie-up of all buses of the Vancouver Island Coach Lines, Ltd., scheduled to begin at 4 o'clock this morning, was put into effect as a meeting of drivers convened at midnight last night and ending at 1:45 o'clock this morning.

The abrupt halt in transportation facilities of the island system was called by members of the Vancouver Island Coach Lines Drivers' Association, following a break-down in negotiations for a wage agreement with the company.

More than 60 drivers of the company, here and at Up-Island centres, are affected. Many of these men had completed their final trip before midnight last night.

Jack Ready, chairman of a special drivers' committee, and last night left for Vancouver to speak the attitude of the company toward wage agreements.

Negotiations, he continued, had been under a way for the past two years, during which time no agreements had been made to the Regional War Labor Board at Victoria.

The bus company had done nothing towards the provision of a better wage agreement, Mr. Ready said He stated that the men were not

Formerly the Supreme Allied Commander when he was in command of the British Second and Canadian First Armies.

Lt.-Gen. Bradley, commander of the First Army group, now is commanding only the forces on the southern flank of the Ardennes the salient.

The quick change of commands was ordered by Gen Eisenhower, Supreme Allied Commander, when the German counter-thrust began to split the Allied forces in two.

Montgomery Sends in Second Army to Aid Hard-Pressed American Forces

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP).—A second menacing German offensive, lashing 15 miles into Northeast France, cut one of the United States Seventh Army's main supply routes today and farther east enemy forces crossed the Rhine and battled into a town only nine miles north of the city of Strasbourg.

This new jolting drive came as Field Marshal Montgomery—now disclosed as commanding the four Allied armies north of the Belgian bulge—sent the Second Army into battle alongside the United States First in a concerted drive that advanced up to two and one-half miles over the Belgian salient on the Third Army's push.

The embattled United States Seventh Army in Northern Alsace and Lorraine was faced with the stern necessity of restoring its positions or making large-scale withdrawals as German vanguards cut across one of its main east-west supply highways in the Northern Vosges Mountains.

The enemy filtered forces into Wingen, astride the vital Sarreguemines-Haguenau highway nine and one-half miles south of the Maginot fortress of Bitche and only 12 miles north of Saverne in the gap of the same name—a jugular vein of Allied forces in Northeast France.

Simultaneously the German crossed the Rhine in motorboats and were engaging Allied defenders in a fierce battle for possession of Gambsheim, on the west bank nine miles north of the French city of Strasbourg.

Fair away through Strasbourg as the struggle raged there, and other German forces were reported to have crossed French Flats Army lines and drove into Neuhausen, 2½ miles south of the city.

Some more refugees streamed out on the highways west of Strasbourg, fearful that the Germans again were about to overrun Alsace and French flags came down inside the city at 43rd military officer said.

This second upsetting offensive in less than a month came as Allied Supreme Headquarters announced that Gen Eisenhower had reshuffled his command putting Field Marshal Montgomery over the four armies now commanding the Belgian salient arranging First and Ninth Armies and all forces north of the German bulge into Belgium for more than two weeks, Supreme Headquarters disclosed today. British and Indian Forces Capture Big Port of Akyab

CALCUTTA, Jan. 5 (AP)—British and Indian forces in an elaborate water-borne swoop captured the important port of Akyab on the west coast of Burma without firing a shot. This was the first Japanese naval or air base in Western Burma and its capture virtually sealed the fate of Mandalay, 230 miles to the northeast.

Akyab, a port of 40,000 and the capital of the district of the same name, is on Akyab Island on a bay of the Bay of Bengal. Its capture was announced today by Lt.-Gen. W. J. Slim, commander of the Fourteenth Army.

Capture of the port gives the Allies an invaluable new ground base for future operations against the Japanese in Lower Burma. In addition to a splendid harbor Akyab has one of seven military airfields capable of handling the largest bombers.

Allied occupation of the port of Akyab was something of an anti-climax, as Group Captain H. A. Davis of the RAF led bridge-builders a small launch plane on the Arakan coast and found the Japanese had left.

Capture of Akyab also puts a British air base down on the western flank of the Japanese defence line, and signals the enemy a surrender of the Mondaley refinery and petroleum area, with the Alexandria Bridge from Ava and of Mandalay are also in an inland battle

To the southwest the Soviets' Yugoslav allies announced they were fighting on the soil of Austria after crossing the Styrian frontier.

Move Taken to Mean End of Civil War

ATHENS, Jan. 5 (CP-Reuters).—Troops of the Left-Wing E.L.A.S. have withdrawn from Athens and were reported tonight also to be pulling out of the nearby port of Piraeus.

The armed forces of the E.A.M. political organization were said to be heading along three main roads to nearby mountain country.

The E.L.A.S. withdrawal, apparently signifying an end of the civil warfare that has plagued Athens for the last month, followed a declaration by the new Greek Government of Gen. Nicholas Plastiras that fighting must cease before parleys on political differences can begin.

Thousands of Athenians crowded the streets and squares of the city tonight, manifestly displaying their relief at the end of the fighting. In some instances, Greek police had great difficulty in protecting E.L.A.S. prisoners from angry crowds.

In Thursday's heavy fighting, British troops cleared a big section west of Omonia Square, held by the E.L.A.S. British troops captured 394 prisoners and among other objectives seized the gutted buildings of the William Boss, Canadian Press war correspondent, reported that the Canadians not only captured a bridge but established a bridgehead across the canal Thursday and smashed a German counter-attack, inflicting at least 400 casualties. Boss said the Canadians also cleared the town of Granarolo, five miles northeast of captured Faenza, as they almost eliminated an enemy pocket on the Senio River's east bank.

Tie-Up of Coach Lines Buses Begins

Drivers Decide On "Protest Walk-Out"

A complete tie-up of all buses of the Vancouver Island Coach Lines, Ltd., scheduled to begin at 4 o'clock this morning, was decided on at a meeting of drivers convened after midnight last night and ending at 1:45 o'clock this morning.

The abrupt halt in transportation facilities of the bus company was called by members of the Vancouver Island Coach Lines Drivers' Association, following a break-down in negotiations for a wage agreement with the company.

More than 60 drivers of the company, here and at Up-Island centres, are affected. Many of these men had completed their final trip before midnight last night.

First application to the regional board was a presentation of the union's proposed agreement regarding wages and working conditions. Later a modification of this agreement was forwarded. The bus company had done nothing towards the provision of a better wage agreement, Mr. Ready said. He stated that the men were not

Allies Now Have Secret Weapon

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP).—It was disclosed tonight that the Allies had unlimbered a secret artillery weapon for the first time on a large scale and shattered German counter-attacks trying to stem the First Army's advance.

Details of the weapon, developed by the United States Navy, were kept secret. It cut to ribbons German counter-attacks which were launched against the northwest corner of the bulge around Beffe. The snow was strewn with the bodies of German dead.

New German Offensive in Northeast France Knifes Main Allied Supply Lines

Montgomery Sends in Second Army to Aid Hard-Pressed American Forces

PARIS, Jan. 5 (AP).—A second menacing German offensive, knifing 15 miles into Northeast France, cut one of the United States Seventh Army's main supply routes today and farther east enemy forces crossed the Rhine and battled into a town only nine miles north of the city of Strasbourg.

This new jolting drive came as Field Marshal Montgomery—now disclosed as commanding the four Allied armies north of the Belgian bulge—sent his British Second Army into battle alongside the United States First in a concerted drive that advanced up to two and one-half miles over Belgian soil won in the first big enemy push.

The embattled United States Seventh Army in Northern Alsace and Lorraine was faced with the stern necessity of restoring its positions or making large-scale withdrawals as German vanguards cut across one of its main east-west supply highways in the Northern Vosges Mountains.

The enemy filtered forces into Wingen, astride the vital Sarreguemines-Haguenau highway nine and one-half miles south of the Maginot fortress of Bitche and only 12 miles north of Saverne in the gap of the same name—a jugular vein of Allied forces in Northeast France.

Fear swept through Strasbourg as the struggle raged there, and other enemy forces lashed out against the French First Army lines and drove into Neunkirch, 19 miles south of the city.

Once more refugees streamed out on the highways west of Strasbourg, fearful that the Germans again were about to overrun Alsace, and French flags came down inside the city, a civil affairs officer said.

This second upsetting offensive in less than a month came as Allied Supreme Headquarters announced that Gen. Eisenhower had reshuffled his command, placing Field Marshal Montgomery over the four armies north of the Belgian bulge, grouping most of the United States First and Ninth Armies with his British Second and Canadian First forces.

A terse Supreme Headquarters announcement said the German push in the Maginot Line area of Bitche had developed into a full-blown offensive, had carried nearly 15 miles into France and was but 12 miles from the vital Saverne Gap supplying two Allied armies along the Rhine.

German broadcasts said veterans who stormed the Maginot Line in 1940 had broken through the old French fortifications again on a 25-mile front to a depth of 20 miles, but Paris radio said the United States Seventh Army had rallied and recaptured the initiative.

A front dispatch described heavy fighting raging from Lemberg, four miles southwest of Bitche, nine miles eastward to Philippsbourg.

Lt.-Gen. Bradley, commander of the First Army Group, now is commanding only the forces on the southern flank of the Ardennes salient.

The quick change of commands was ordered by Gen. Eisenhower, Supreme Allied Commander, when the German offensive threatened to split the Allied forces in two.

Montgomery personally took command in the north at midnight December 20, and rushed to the front to direct American blows that halted the German plunge toward Liege, and British and American

THE TIMES, London

News and Comment on International Events selected from The Times daily and published in The Daily Colonist by special arrangement with The Vancouver Daily Province.

(Copyright, 1945, by Southam Co.)

LONDON, Jan. 5—No sign of a general withdrawal by the Germans from their invasion front in Belgium is visible, says The Times' military correspondent, who concludes that Von Rundstedt is going to fight to the finish where his troops now stand.

Indeed, the whole character of the Nazi defence is aggressive, and they have brought up additional armored units to hold Gen. Patton's offensive in the Bastogne area.

The United States Seventh Army, points out The Times' Paris correspondent, no longer holds positions on German soil between Sarreguemines and the Rhine. It is already back at the Maginot Line, seven to ten miles to the rear.

The Germans have reoccupied some Maginot forts. It is clear, adds The Times' correspondent, the enemy has plenty of fight left in him, and yet another offensive on his part is not impossible.

Gen. Plastiras' Government in Greece has outlined a short-term policy for restoration of order and punishment of collaborators with the Germans. But it has done nothing so far to induce the National Liberation Army to lay down its arms.

That army's leaders want a truce and have appealed to the regent to act, but Gen. Scobie, according to The Times' diplomatic correspondent, still insists on disarmament first. The deadlock, therefore, continues, and so does the fighting.

Editorially The Times declares as long as this fighting persists no satisfactory settlement can be reached by any Government. Certainly a British victory over the National Front Army will offer no solution. What is wanted, says The Times, is, first, a truce, then creation of a representative Government, including members of the resistance movement.

General Plastiras has not been able to get together such a cabinet, and so it provides by itself no prospect of settlement. It is completely divorced from the National Liberation Army.

The crux of the military deadlock would appear to be that, while

Report Canadian Troops on Move

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP).—German reports suggested today — without Allied confirmation — that British and Canadian troops were on the move again near Nijmegen, Holland, with the Canadians taking the town of Hemme in an attack led by flame-throwing tanks, and British troops attacking Wanssum, north of Venlo.

The German news agency claimed the Canadians attacked Hemme, about seven miles northwest of Nijmegen, yesterday and "at the price of heavy casualties succeeded in penetrating to the ruins of the town."

A report to the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter from its Berlin correspondent said the German Foreign Office was expecting a full-scale British offensive in the Nijmegen sector and that civilians, including women and girls, were being drafted to build defence positions in Westphalia.

Would Put Ban on Non-War Meetings

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—James F. Byrnes, United States War Mobilization Director, proposed tonight the cancellation of conventions scheduled after February 1 unless they are in the war interest.

The voluntary ban proposed, with President Roosevelt's approval, would apply to conventions attended by more than 50 persons.

Mr. Byrnes said he was so certain his appeal "would receive immediate public support and general co-operation" that he has taken no measures to establish Government enforcement procedures.

Presents Canadian Flag to Borough

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP).—Lt.-Gen. P. J. Montague, chief of staff at Canadian Military Headquarters in London, today presented to historic Holborn Borough, on behalf of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps and the Royal Canadian Electrical and Mechanical Engineers, a Canadian flag and plaque.

The presentation was made to commemorate the admiration of the Canadian Army for the courage and constancy of the citizens of Holborn and the gratitude of Canadian Military Headquarters for the unfailing kindness and hospitality of the borough.

This ceremony marked 30 months of close connection between the Canadian Army and the borough in which the R.C.O.C. and R.C.E.M.E. Headquarters are located.

Russia Accepts Lublin Regime

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP).—Russia today announced recognition of the Polish Provisional Government of Lublin, making a clean break with the Polish Government in London, which still is recognized by Britain and the United States.

Bringing to a head one of the thorniest questions facing the impending "Big Three" parley, the broadcast announcement came within four days of the joint announcement by Britain and the United States that they stood by the London Polish Government.

The name of the Russian ambassador to Poland is Victor Zakarovich Lebedev.

Authoritative British sources said the Moscow move was not received with surprise, and in no way affected Britain's recognition of the London Polish Government.

"It has been anticipated," a spokesman said, "and it is a clearly recognized fact that there has been correspondence between the United States, Britain and Russia on the subject, but it just has not been possible to agree."

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—The destroyer Reid has been lost to enemy action in the Philippine area, the United States Navy announced today. No announcement was made as to extent of casualties.

Fatally Injured in Fire at Shelburne

SHELBURNE, N.S., Jan. 5 (CP).—Fire breaking out in a naval barracks here early today claimed the life of one man, but three others in the building escaped without injury.

J. Wilfred Doherty, an electrical artificer from New Westminster, B.C., was fatally injured when he fell from a pole after being shocked while disconnecting a power wire leading into the blazing building.

Breaking out while the men were in bed, the flames raced swiftly through the T-shaped building 60 by 20 feet in size. Almost all the furnishings were lost and most of the men escaped with only their night clothes.

Japanese Mainland Hit by Fortresses

WASHINGTON, Jan. 6 (Saturday) (AP).—Superfortresses of the Asiatic-based 20th Bomber Command hit at industrial targets on the island of Kyushu, part of the Japanese mainland, in a daylight raid today.

A communique issued by Gen. H. H. Arnold, commanding general of the 20th Air Force, said details of the mission will be released as soon as they became available. There was no indication of the size of the striking force.

The raid was the first on Kyushu targets by the B-29's since December 19 of last year. Kyushu is the southernmost island of Japan.

Local Groups to Seek Review Of Street Railwaymen's Case

Expressing by resolution their support for street railwaymen in their demands for wage adjustments and better working conditions, a meeting at the Labor Hall last night, attended by representatives of 35 labor and other organizations, decided to initiate their campaign by asking British Columbia members of the House of Commons to press the Federal Government to review the street railwaymen's case, named an action committee to plan and conduct the campaign and directed that an appeal be telegraphed to Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor, asking immediate action to avert a strike.

The meeting also expressed confidence in the street railwaymen's advisory board.

The action committee, composed of A.F.L. and C.C.L. adherents, includes C. W. Marshall, chairman, and A. P. Rayment, secretary, both United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners; Robert Noble, Victoria Labor Council; G. A. Wilkinson and C. C. Chivers, Victoria Trades and Labor Council; William McLaughlin, shipyard rigger; John C. Cosgrove and Denny Fitzgerald, boilermakers; R. Jones and A. H. Hart, Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees.

New Year's Party Fatal to Seamen

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (CP).—The crew of a British freighter anchored within hailing distance of New York but unable to get ashore on New Year's Eve, organized a disappointed party with cocktails composed of an anti-freeze compound, turpentine, lemon juice and molasses.

Twenty-four hours later the delayed secondary action of the potion laid low 13 of the men, and three of them subsequently died, the British Consulate-General disclosed today.

Eight have been recovered and are back aboard ship, and the remaining two were reported out of danger.

May Move to Eliminate Rule By Governmental Authority

CAPETOWN, Jan. 5 (CP).—A campaign against Government by regulation is likely to be one of the features of the forthcoming session of the Union of South Africa Parliament which begins January 20.

Members of both sides of the House are dissatisfied with the growing tendency to let Parliament merely decide the broad issues, and leave the details to be administered by regulations drawn up by civil servants under the direction of the Cabinet. Many Government members recently have protested publicly against "this beaurratic form of Government."

Several Cabinet ministers are likely to come in for serious criticism during the session. Sidney Waterson, Minister of Economic Development, probably will be one target of both Government and Opposition members for his postwar industrial policy. Mr. Waterson repeatedly has voiced his opposition to a policy of protecting South African industries by import tariffs. In Bloemfontein recently he said, "I believe that the protection of industries by import control is a principle which will land us in great difficulties both here and with our overseas friends."

On the other hand, it is the Nationalist Opposition's declared policy to protect all key industries and those industries producing articles comparing favorably in price and quality with imported articles—a policy which finds support among many local industrialists and their spokesmen in Parliament.

Prime Minister Smuts probably will have to answer for his action in declaring the Afrikaner Broederbond (brotherly society), an Afrikaans secret society, a political organization, and banning it. He announced last month the Government had decided to ban the Broederbond, labeling it a "dangerous cunning political Fascist organization."

British and Indian Forces Capture Big Port of Akyab

CALCUTTA, Jan. 5 (AP).—British and Indian forces in an elaborate water-borne swoop captured the important port of Akyab on the west coast of Burma without firing a shot. This was the last big Japanese naval and air base in Western Burma and its capture virtually sealed the fate of Mandalay, 230 miles to the northeast.

The Japanese, who had made the city of 40,000 a chief base of operations since May, 1942, fled before three British columns swarmed ashore on Akyab Island on which the city is situated, early Wednesday morning, Allied headquarters announced today.

Capture of the port gives the Allies an invaluable new forward base for future operations against the Japanese in Lower Burma. In addition to a splendid harbor Akyab boasts seven military airfields capable of handling the largest bombers.

Actual occupation of the prized island was something of an anti-climax, as Group Captain W. D. David of the R.A.F. had boldly landed a small liaison plane on one of its airfields the previous day and discovered that the Japanese had withdrawn to the mainland New Year's Day.

Seizure of the island promises to free from two to four divisions of Allied troops to push on toward the vital port of Rangoon, 320 miles to the southeast near the mouth of the Irrawaddy River. For two years the British forces have had to keep this force to forestall a possible enemy invasion of India along the narrow coastal plain.

Akyab, placed like a cork at the lower end of the Arakan coastal plain, will permit the British forces to defend the whole area west of the Burma coastal range with only a small number of troops.

Capture of Akyab also puts a British force deep on the western flank of the Japanese defence line and makes the enemy's surrender of the Mandalay territory almost imperative. Already British troops from north and west of Mandalay are closing in on that fabled city.

Now with other British troops far to the southwest of Mandalay, the Japanese alarm at being cut off in Burma was said to be growing.

American Force Landed on Marinduque, No Opposition

GEN. MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS IN THE PHILIPPINES, Jan. 6 (Saturday) (AP).—American soldiers have landed unopposed on Marinduque, a small island near Luzon, main island in the Philippines, headquarters announced today.

Marinduque is a mountainous island in Tayabas Bay, northeast of Mindoro Island and about 90 miles southeast of Manila.

The communique said the new position on Marinduque Island gives the Americans control of the Sibuyan Sea off the southwest coast of Luzon, and established direct contact with Luzon. The closest point between Marinduque and Luzon is about 20 miles.

The landing was at Buenavista on the southwest coast approximately 20 miles east of Mindoro Island, invaded by the Americans December 15, and 108 miles southeast of Manila.

Other Philippine islands previously invaded are Leyte, Panaon, Dinagat and Homonhon.

American planes heavily bombed Clark Field's airdromes in daylight Thursday, destroying 30 parked planes. A force of heavy bombers and fighters hit Limbones Island in Manila Bay in daylight the previous day.

Britain Increased Production Through Drastic Farm Changes

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP).—Through a drastic change in the farming system, involving intensive mechanization, Britain increased her agricultural production by 70 per cent last year, R. S. Hudson, British Minister of Agriculture, said today in an interview.

After Dunkerque there appeared to be a danger that supplies would be cut off. British farmers concentrated on growing bulky crops. Wheat acreage was increased from 1,750,000 before the war to 3,250,000 acres last year.

Acreages of potatoes, barley and oats were doubled. Pig and poultry production was reduced, as it was anticipated Canada would supply high-energy foods.

Mr. Hudson said Britain had lost about 85,000 agricultural workers to the forces and industry. In 1940, agricultural workers were "frozen" to their jobs, and the Women's Land Army formed. The army now is about 80,000 strong.

Before the war, the bulk of the British wheat crop was fed to poultry. Mr Hudson said farmers have been informed that everything they grow will be taken until 1947, and that prices for milk will not drop below present rates.

Beginning in February, prices for other products will be fixed to enable farmers to plan production programs ahead. In 13 farming areas, independent economists will analyze data on costs to enable production costs to be established on an agreed basis as between the agriculture ministry and the farmers.

Mr. Hudson said approximately 7,000 farmers have been dispossessed for bad husbandry after their methods were investigated by county council agricultural committees, executive committees and departmental officials. Of those dispossessed, two-thirds owned their farms.

To Seek Review

and Other Transport Workers, Alec Mitchell, National Union of Machinists, Fitters and Helpers, and H. E. Thayer, International Association of Machinists.

Outlining the history of the Victoria, Vancouver and New Westminster street railwaymen's claim, Fred Davison, a member of their advisory board, charged the management of the B.C. Electric Railway Co., Ltd., "never negotiated with us in good faith" when time came last February for renewal of the agreement with the company.

WAGE ADJUSTMENTS FOR MANY WORKERS SOUGHT

The union desired, he said, that wages of bus drivers on the Esquimalt line be increased 10 cents an hour to parity with a higher level for street car operators, that wages of machinists, carpenters and painters be raised to the prevailing rates in the Greater Vancouver and Victoria areas, in some cases requiring an advance of 22 cents an hour, and that trackmen be raised above the level of 60 cents an hour.

Original award of the Regional War Labor Board in British Columbia had given an increase of 4½ cents and directed that Mount Tolmie bus operators be dropped to the level of the Esquimalt line. This had been protested, Mr. Davison stated, and the reduction of Mount Tolmie drivers had been canceled, but the 4½-cent general increase was retained.

The National War Labor Board, following a long hearing and lengthy consideration, had taken away the 4½-cent increase, Mr. Davison explained. The union, he continued, then asked the company if there was any way to "get together" to reason out the problem and appeal to the national board to alter its decision, but the company replied the case was in the hands of the Government.

As a result, the union advised the national board that unless it made a decision, the street railwaymen would "take a holiday." The men were opposed to striking, he stated, but unless the national board took immediate action, "I am afraid you will be walking to work Tuesday morning."

Statements appearing in the press were about half true, Mr. Davison claimed in answer to questions. He believed the national board had made a blunder and when it suggested submission of new evidence might lead to reopening the case, was "looking for a way out." It had demanded removal of the strike threat first.

STORM OF ARGUMENT OVER RESOLUTION

A motion to "support the street railwaymens action in their fight" unleased a storm of argument.

Garry Culhane, Vancouver, Shipyard Workers' Federation, criticized the railway union for failure to inform the public fully on its case and for failure to mobilize public opinion. No matter how justified the demands, it could not hope for action at Ottawa while the strike ultimatum continued. He charged the threat "brought the rotten and provocative decision" to cancel the 4½-cent award, and urged withdrawal of the threat to obtain a rehearing.

The B.C. Electric Railway Co., Ltd., Mr Culhane also contended, should not be permitted to escape responsibility.

Several speakers expressed sympathy with the street railwaymen's demands but declared they should have been greater publicity to obtain public support. Others suggested Mr. Culhane was "waving the flag" and speaking as an appeaser. Others argued that "if we must not antagonize the Government, the Government must not antagonize us."

Mr. Culhane retaliated that "a no-strike pledge is not a pledge to the boss nor the Government, but to our armed forces, that we will take no action to delay victory."

How, asked O. A. Wilkinson, could the part of labor in the war effort, and possible strikes, be reconciled with closing plane factories and reduced ship production.

Flying Officer Murray Bryce, C.C.F. candidate, declared the National War Labor Board decision in this case reflected a Federal Government anti-labor policy that would continue into postwar years. The C.C.F. was prepared to endorse the strike. Urging greater publicity for the railwaymen's demands he offered assistance, declaring "the people do not understand the case."

Original motion to "support the street railwaymen's action in their fight" was amended by removal of the word "action," and amended again by making it read "support the street railwaymen in their demands for wage adjustments and better working conditions."

Several delegates expressed complete sympathy for the street railwaymen, but stated they were not authorized by their unions to support a strike nor to commit their unions to go on strike.

LONDON (CP) — A small-scale working model of the Czecho-Slovakian designed Bren gun has been presented to the King by the Czecho-Slovak Ambassador and Czechs at Newcastle-on-Tyne.

Negotiations Fail

SEATTLE, Jan. 5 (AP).—Further attempts to negotiate the differences between the Seattle Transit Commission and Seattle bus drivers ended abruptly tonight as the commission charged the drivers with operating a "slow-down strike" and refused further discussions until the "strike is terminated."

W. J. Molyneaux, union business agent, and members of the union wage and conditions committee went into sessions after the breaking off of relations with the commission, but did not indicate what if any further steps they would take.

Earlier today the union had proposed that the conciliation service of the United States Department of Labor be asked to arbitrate the dispute which stems from the commission's refusal to consider a union request for $20 a month increases for bus drivers in the new 1945 contract.

Rocket Bombs More Deadly Say Germans

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP).—The Germans who tried and failed last Summer to knock out London with the V-1 flying bomb, claimed today to have stepped up the V-2 rocket barrage.

The Berlin radio claimed that volleys of the ten-ton radio-controlled projectiles had been increased in the last 24 hours with all the destructive rockets aimed at the sprawling urban area of Greater London.

The British Ministry of Home Security said in its communique that "there has been enemy air activity directed against Southern England . . . Damages and casualties were reported."

A possible refinement in V-2 construction was hinted in a dispatch from neutral Sweden which reported the destruction by patriot dynamiters of an important radio components factory in Denmark which it was asserted made "magic eye" apparatus for V-2's.

Air Ministry commentators in London said they thought it unlikely that the rockets were radio-guided but the Stockholm report invited much unofficial speculation.

Nine persons were killed and others injured when a V-2 struck a block of flats with a number of small stores beneath, igniting an oil shop amid the ruins. Rescuers worked with dogs and sound detectors to extricate the wounded. Five persons were pulled from the wreckage after being located by trained Alsatian hounds, among them two babies, both unhurt.

Children at a nearby school were killed and many were seriously injured when another V-2 destroyed two pubs, wrecked a number of houses and damaged a church and shops.

Threaten Strike

far, and we're firm and determined to carry the strike through.

"It will only be action from the other end that will halt the strike—it won't come from this end."

Members of the union met in Victoria today to discuss strike plans. A general emergency meeting of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council was held tonight. Union members will meet at New Westminster tomorrow.

OTTAWA AWAITING NEW EVIDENCE

OTTAWA, Jan 5 (CP)—The National War Labor Board today awaited the arrival from Vancouver of new evidence submitted by the Street Railwaymen's Union (A.F.L.) in support of its application for a rehearing of a wage application previously turned down by the board.

Meantime, there was no comment from Mr. Justice M. B. Archibald, board chairman, on a statement by Charles M. Stewart, chairman of the union's advisory board, to the effect that threat of the workers to strike January 9 if their demands were not met had not been withdrawn.

An exchange of telegrams between Mr Justice Archibald and Mr. Stewart earlier in the day made it clear that the board was acting on the assumption that the strike threat had been removed. The board chairman had said yesterday the board was prepared to review the case on the basis of new evidence but the threat of a strike would have to be removed before any action was taken.

Mr. Stewart in a telegram received here today, making formal application for a review, said his communication canceled all previous wires. Mr. Justice Archibald replied saying the application would receive consideration when the evidence, being sent to Ottawa by air mail, was received. The chairman's telegram said it was noted that Mr Stewart's latest communication canceled all preceding wires.

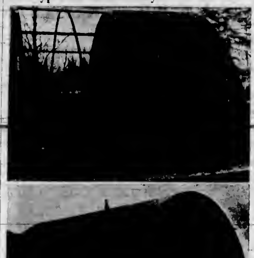

Whether the board would continue its intention to study the new evidence to see if it warranted a review was not immediately clear. Officially, the board had no communication from Mr Stewart defining his latest wire as not removing the strike threat. This news reached the board only through reporters.

Following receipt of the application for a review the board communicated with the B.C. Electric Company, employers of the street car and bus operators in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster, advising the company that additional evidence was being submitted and asking if the company had any representations to make.

VANCOUVER, Jan 5 (CP)—Intervention of Labor Minister Humphrey Mitchell to avert a Lower Mainland street car tie-up was sought Friday night by Tom Reid, Liberal member of Parliament for New Westminster.

"In view of impending grave seriousness of dislocation of war industry and business generally which will occur if strike of street railwaymen Vancouver, New Westminster takes place, would appreciate your intervention with view to bringing about amicable settlement to relieve deadlock between employees of the B.C. Electric Railway Company and the National War Labor Board," Mr. Reid wired the Labor Minister.

New-Type Hut for the Army

THE hut age has arrived on the battlefronts of Europe. First there were the Nissen huts, prefabricated houses, portal houses and now comes the Moody hut. It is the brain child of Major H. H. G. Moody, of Winnipeg, serving with the Royal Canadian Engineers. It is practical because it can be constructed with materials always at hand. Square mesh track, such as is used in laying plane runways, is overlaid on a steel frame. The mesh is then covered with sarkcloth and two coats of cement. Top picture shows a Moody hut in course of construction and lower shows the completed hut. Four man can construct a Moody hut in an hour, and allowing the cement to dry, it is ready for occupancy in about five days.

Generals Who Planned Alamein Now With Monty in Command

LONDON, Jan. 6 (Saturday) (CP).—The average Briton today accepted the fact that Field Marshal Montgomery has been placed in control of four Allied armies on the Western Front as a temporary measure in view of the dent in the Allied front line carved out by the German December offensive.

The revelation that the Twenty-First Army Group commander now is directing all forces north of the enemy's Belgian bulge was seen by the man in the street as a necessary measure to insure over-all command in that zone, especially since communications between the groups north and south of the bulge obviously were somewhat disrupted.

Today's Daily Mail in a front page story under the banner line, "Montgomery: The Full Story," said the position "was about as tough a proposition as Montgomery ever had to face."

The story added: "It was a position momentarily of tremendous confusion and not on his own front. He was simply being handed what looked like a very dangerous situation and asked to clean it up."

The Mail added: "Without the really magnificent fighting qualities of certain American divisions he never could have done it."

Alan Moorhead, Daily Express war correspondent, writing from "The Western Front," said not only was Field Marshal Montgomery in charge of the whole northern flank, but also he has his own staff, men he called his "first eleven," using a cricket term.

"These are the generals who designed and fought the Mediterranean battles from El Alamein onwards," Moorhead added. "They controlled the Normandy landings from the first assault until the German Army was smashed. Now after five months they've come back into the Allied field command again."

The News Chronicle said in an editorial: "The news that Monty is in command will be welcomed, not because he is British, but because he understands, better than anyone else, how the Germans fight and how they can be beaten."

Demands Allies Give Up Surrender Slogan

WASHINGTON, Jan. 5 (AP).—Senator Burton Wheeler (Democrat, Montana) tonight called on the American people to demand that the Allies abandon "the brutal and costly slogan of unconditional surrender."

The Montanan, in a broadcast address, also asked:

1. The creation of a United Nations political council "to see that the present series of disgraceful unilateral peace settlements now taking place in Europe stops."

2. Steps to create a United States of Europe as "the only basic cure for her ancient ills."

"Since no real agreement could be reached among the 'Big Three' about the future United Nations organization contemplated in the Moscow declaration and advocated by the United States, Dumbarton Oaks is a grim hoax," he said.

Dr. Lowdermilk said that projects of soil conservation might help increase food production in China by about 50 per cent.

Tire Shortage To Be Acute

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP) — Rubber Controller Alan H. Williamson warned today in a prepared statement that the shortage of civilian tires is likely to become "still more acute" within the next few months because of the step-up in military tire production.

He said that tire rationing representatives throughout Canada have been instructed to scrutinize all applications for tire permits so that only the most necessary vehicles be supplied until the situation improves.

At the same time, he revealed that one of the first steps taken to boost military tire production was the cancelation of plans made three months ago for an increase in the output of tires urgently needed for essential civilian users, such as doctors, nurses, police, fire-fighters, war plants and milk truckers.

"Even the cancelation of these plans may not prove enough," said Mr. Williamson. "Unless the situation at the battlefronts improves rapidly, we may not be able to maintain the 1944 rate of civilian output—a rate which did not meet all essential demands."

Western Front

Once more Field Marshal von Rundstedt had struck at a critical point, for should he capture and hold Saverne Gap the United States Seventh and French First Armies would be caught east of the Vosges Mountains between these forces and German troops firmly entrenched around Colmar in Southern Alsace.

In slow and stubborn battling, the British Second Army and the United States First Army—the former disclosed for the first time today to be in action—widened the front of their assault north of the Belgian bulge today to 21 miles in gains of more than a mile.

It now is possible to disclose that British Second Army formations fought alongside the Americans more than a week ago in smashing the northwestern tip of the German wedge west of Rochefort. These forces, though not large, helped to drive the enemy spearheads back from 10 to 12 miles in two days.

The Third Army on the south, still under Lieut.-Gen. Omar N Bradley's Twelfth Army Group command—which originally embraced the United States First, Third and Ninth Armies—ground out a one-mile gain west of Bastogne after beating off at least 18 counter-attacks in 24 hours up to early today.

A one to two-mile withdrawal on a three-mile sector from the area of Michamps, four miles northeast of Bastogne, southward to near Wardin was made, however, by Third Army armor in what was described as an orderly line-shortening operation.

The combined drives of the three armies had whittled the Belgian bulge to about half its original size.

It was announced that the shift in command was by mutual consent when Von Rundstedt's drive split the northern armies from the Third. It was the Third under Bradley's command that struck so hard from the South that the Germans' westward momentum was checked.

A field dispatch said the shift took place December 20, four days after Von Rundstedt struck, but Gen. Marshall in Washington said it took place two days after the German drive began on December 16. Gen. Marshall asserted furthermore that the Allied counter-drive was "just getting started."

There was no indication that units of Gen. Crerar's First Canadian Army were operating in the area of the German salient.

German reports, however, indicated Canadian and British troops were on the move near Nijmegen in Holland. Canadian forces were reported by the German D.N.B. Agency to have occupied the ruined town of Hemme, seven miles northwest of Nijmegen, Thursday, and British troops were said to be attacking Wanssum, 12 miles north of Venlo in Holland.

Only Lt.-Gen. Jacob L. Devers' Sixth Army group, composed of the United States Seventh and French First Armies, was unaffected by the command changes and it found itself with a big enemy offensive on its hands.

In "new gains of two miles" the Germans burst out on to the northern extremity of the Alsatian plain in a drive that carried them to within two miles of the Sarreguemines-Haguenau highway, one of the main east-west supply lines to the Rhine.

A front dispatch placed the vanguards of the drive nine and a half miles south of the Maginot fortress of Bitche, after a number of the fortifications were overrun.

GERMANS PRESSING ON SEVENTH DAY

Farther east the Germans were pressing close behind Seventh Army units withdrawing back on to the plain from the Wissembourg gap. Between Wissembourg and the French city of Strasbourg, 21 miles south, German patrols crossed the Rhine in undisclosed strength.

Gen Devers, who in an order of the day yesterday reported that the two armies had been forced to pause to regroup, called on his troops to smash back the enemy.

Menacing as this second offensive was, its size was dwarfed by the struggle raging in the snow-clad hills and forests of Belgium and Luxembourg, where three Allied armies and three German armies were locked in a giant battle of attrition.

The British Second Army, which had been rushed south when the German drive began to threaten Liege went over to the attack Thursday with tanks and infantry on the west flank of the United States First Army.

One column reached the village of Waha, a mile south of Marche at the northwest tip of the German positions. In gains of nearly one and one-half miles other Tommies neared Rendeux, barely four miles from La Roche, a road centre nine miles southwest of the Allied pivot of Grandmenil on the northern flank of the German salient.

On the western end of the bulge, British forces assaulted the Germans at the outskirts of newly-captured Wavreille and Bure, two and five miles, respectively, south of Rochefort.

West of Rochefort, mop-up squads were uncovering the cost to the Germans of Von Rundstedt's attempt to press to the Meuse. They found 81 tanks, 405 vehicles and 81 guns knocked out or abandoned.

To the east, the American First Army ground on south another mile for total gains of up to five miles in its big push, now three days old, tightening the squeeze on the German Fifth and Sixth panzer armies and Seventh Army.

Eleven miles east of Grandmenil a counter-attacking German force was wiped out near Bergeval.

Six miles east of Grandmenil infantry fought into the edge of the pivotal town of Lierneux.

The First Army now has penetrated the forward wall of the German defences, but progress was slowed by enemy mines hidden in the snow, by dense fog and by well-placed enemy defences.

German troops were encountered in white Winter uniforms such as are worn on the Russian front, and ski troop detachments were spotted at the northeastern sector of the front.

A front dispatch reported the Ninth Army had helped meet the original German onslaught, but whether its forces still were engaged, as German broadcasts claimed, was without official confirmation.

The concerted push of the Third Army from the south still was stopped by the fury of German counter-attacks along the sector of the 12-mile-wide waist of the Belgian bulge, but a one-mile gain was scored near Hubermont, six miles west of Bastogne.

Three heavy counter-attacks during the 24 hours ended at 6 a.m. today were knocked back in the areas of Champs and Longchamps, three miles north of Bastogne, where the Third is about 14 miles from British forces slugging down from the northwest.

Fifteen smaller attacks were warded off 12 miles east of Bastogne and west of Goesdorf in Northern Luxembourg.

It was estimated the Third Army destroyed 435 of the 900 tanks which Von Rundstedt massed for his December 16 break-through. Thirty-four tanks were destroyed yesterday.

Although fog sometimes cut visibility to 15 feet on the First Army front, breaks in the weather permitted the British Second and the American Ninth and 29th Tactical Air Forces to fly in close support while more than 1,000 Allied heavy bombers struck enemy supply lines.

CHARGE NEGLIGENCE

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 5 (AP).—A coroner's jury today accused Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation of "gross negligence" in connection with the navy-type Liberator bomber crash here November 22, causing death to all six civilians in the flight test crew.

Coroner Chester D Gunn said that, by an 11-1 vote, the jury found "that any criminal negligence would rest with Consolidated Vultee Aircraft Corporation, due to its gross negligence and lax, haphazard methods of inspection."

Welfare Service Run by Belgian Baroness Is Boon to Soldiers

By H T MATSON
Daily Colonist War Correspondent

BRUSSELS, Jan. 5—While waiting for transport back to press headquarters, I dropped in on the Brussels Garrison Voluntary Army Welfare Service—an organization ruled by a certain Baroness Jean Rolin of Brussels—a blonde, elegant Belgian, spruce and chic in her im- [illegible] with a colonel of the British Second Army started and then developed a service which supplies just about all that any soldier on leave could possibly require—and as the Baroness said, if there were anything they had overlooked then they'd somehow find it.

This service started in a small way on about September 5 and today its offices spread over half a floor in one of Brussels' prewar major apartment buildings.

Baroness Rolin is the unchallenged C.O. over all departments, aided by two captains and four lieutenants plus various secretaries and stenographers (mostly Brussels socialites), who apparently work like loggers and speak English with a literally "ne plus ultra" Oxford accent.

It is an eye-opener to see just how much these adroit young ladies have accomplished—what's more, all furloughing Canadians, Limeys and occasional Doughboys really appreciate what's being done for them.

DISPENSES
MANY SERVICES

Here is just a part of what this popular organization voluntarily dispenses First, their information bureau which shows the lads how to get around Brussels, where to change money, where to hunt a bath, names of all cinemas, theatres, dance halls, canteens, etc., plus where to shop without getting too badly peeled. There's a booking office through which a certain number of free seats are dispensed for every performance of the different shows and symphony concerts and this particular bureau is invariably overcrowded

Next comes the free library on a free-loan basis for one week Regrettably a dearth of books prevail—detective and adventure stories are most in demand—but a surprising number of intellectuals thirst for political, scientific and psychological publications, while quite a number delve heroically into the delicate trickeries of learning French.

In the department of music, they have gramophone records—not too good is reception, so they say—and it is odd to learn that from our lusty Poilus, the cry for classic music quite subdues the yelp for jazz.

GIFT SHOP
BUSY PLACE

Now look at the gift shop . . . at the start, this voluntary service had merely a small perfume stand downtown with only four saleswomen—today they have 12 such ladies plus three specialized—experts evidently in lace, lingerie and a melange of intimate stuff about which we will just suppose our lads are innocently ignorant.

Average attendance in this little [illegible] of 500 and a maximum of 1,000—they also send out parcels at such a rate as to necessitate adding a night shift—38,000 have been dispatched to date.

Real corn in Egypt to the lads on leave is the Allied Forces dance club, with girls supplied from local stores. These affairs are more than merely popular—they save the potentially caper-cutting male all the time, risk and embarrassment so often encountered in the precarious business of "cherchez la femme"—moreover, none of the attendant ladies are likely to be of a piratical or scheming disposition—so, mother dear, you needn't worry (much) about your little boy in khaki.

Summarizing, it should please Canadian families to know that their sons in Brussels are being well looked after and you have only to hover around Voluntary Army Welfare Service headquarters any time between 8 a.m. and 7 p.m. to see what it actually means to the men on "forty-eight hours" . . . they crowd around headquarters offices same as they do round a tea truck on a freezing day.

V-Bombs Uncover Historic Relics

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP).—While the ordinary citizen might be disinterested in the historical significance of the collapsed cellar from which he is dug after the V-bomb drops the house on him, prowling antiquaries sometimes find later that he was sitting on top of a priceless chunk of hidden Saxon architecture.

In London, Exeter, Cambridge, Southampton and half a dozen other storied cities the high explosives of German "kultur" have accidentally laid bare fragments of ancient churches and houses which had been covered by the plaster and brick of centuries.

Rebuilding after the Great Fire of London in 1666 wiped out nearly all traces of the early life story of the great city founded by the Romans. Now, in the ruins of Cripplegate in "The City"—London's financial section—the vast extent of the wall built by the Romans for the defence of Londinium has been revealed by new sections found deep in the cratered subsoil.

Farther east, near London Tower, plaster shaken from the Church of All Hallows uncovered part of the structure of a 14th century Saxon church. Only a plaque on All Hallows wall had hinted that one of the earliest English shrines was "believed to have stood on this site."

According to Dr Bryan Hugh St J. O'Neill, 39-year-old inspector of ancient monuments for the Ministry of Works, Southampton actually gained more—from the antiquarian point of view—in its many bombings than it had lost.

"A storehouse of mediaeval treasure came to light in the ruins of the city," he said.

Short of Workers

VANCOUVER, Jan 5 (CP)—United States Boeing plants engaged in production of Superfortresses are short 1,000 skilled mechanics, R S Kirchner, representative of the Boeing employment office in Seattle, said here today.

Mr Kirchner is at present interviewing Canadian aircraft workers and discharged R.C.A.F. personnel, 100 of whom will be released to work in Boeing plants in Seattle and Renton.

No women will be included work on big B-29s being too heavy.

BUY MACHINERY

LONDON, Jan 5 (CP)—"The farmers and county (war agricultural) committees have spent something like £100,000,000 (about $450,000,000) during the war on machinery alone, and farmers today are still spending £25,000,000 a year and yet cry for more," said Education Minister R. A Butler in a speech to Essex farmers recently In 1939 the United Kingdom had 55,000 tractors. Now it has more than three times that number.

NO MORE NEW CARS

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP)—Canadian motorists will have to get along with their present cars for a long time to come, information gathered from the Munitions Department and other sources indicated today. New demands on war industry make it unlikely that there will be an early resumption of the manufacture of passenger cars which was halted early in 1942.

MILLIONS PERISHED

NEW YORK, Jan 5 (CP)—Fourteen per cent of Poland's prewar population — more than 5,000,000 Poles, among them 2,600,000 Jews—have perished under the Nazi occupation of the country, according to the latest Polish Government tabulation reported today by the Polish Telegraph Agency to a London dispatch.

WINS COMPETITION

OTTAWA, Jan 5 (CP)—Betty Mullen, 16, third-year student at the High School of Commerce, has been awarded the Dominion prize in the Dominion Fire Prevention Association third annual poster competition, it was announced today. Honorable mention was given to an entry submitted by Marie Moore, Vancouver.

The War Today

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
A P War Analyst

Plagued by appalling Winter weather, the battle of the Belgian bulge is building toward a climactic clash.

On its outcome largely may hinge the duration of the war in Europe. Belated disclosure from Allied supreme headquarters of British as [illegible] gaged, and of a shift in highest field assignments that divides the bulge front into north and south flank sectors, the one under British and the other under American top operational command, definitely changes the whole strategic picture.

It goes far to confirm the view that the great Allied pincer operation against the narrow and vulnerable waistline of the Nazi bulge into Belgium marks far more than an attempt to regain lost ground and restore the situation prior to the German break-through smash in mid-December. It looms now as a full-scale Allied offensive, not merely as a counter-attack.

It is now disclosed that British troops had arrived to back up the shaken American First Army on the critical northern flank of the German break-through within 48 hours of the first German onset. The assignment of Field Marshal Montgomery to command of all Allied forces on that flank as well as the whole northern end of the Allied lines came at the same time

Out of all circumstances now revealed can be deduced the impression that a major policy decision was made by the highest Allied military command even before the German drive had begun to slow down striking, nor walking out in protest against the War Labor Board. They were staging a protest "walk-out" against the company's failure to make satisfactory wage settlements, he said

With Mr. Ready on the drivers' committee are Jack Devine, E. Henly and George Leeden.

A company official interviewed last night stated that the Coach Lines was now paying wages according to a War Labor Board schedule brought down in a ruling two years ago; that subsequently two applications by the men for increases in wages, one calling for increases of up to 26 cents per hour, and one up to 12½ cents per hour, had been disallowed by the Regional War Labor Board, and that, further, a request to appeal the latter decision to the National Board had been disallowed

He stated that following these decisions, negotiations had been reopened to endeavor to reach a settlement, and that these negotiations were still going on "I do not understand how a strike can legally take place at this time, or on what basis," he said, "since we are operating under a board order, and the only manner in which our wage rates can be changed is by further order of the board".

Contacted by telephone, Labor Minister George Pearson said at Nanaimo last night "Any bus strike is definitely illegal and will be treated as such. I have pointed out to the busmen the proper procedure to follow.

SAYS PROCEDURE
IS CLEAR

"I told them they could apply for a conciliation commissioner and have a conciliation board appointed. I told them I would recommend to the Regional War Labor Board to review the whole status of the industry, and pointed the way towards reaching a settlement. The procedure is clear.

"They have been to see me two or three times and I have urged them to take the proper course.

"While the conciliation board could not fix wages, I suggested a wage agreement without wage conditions being named, followed by an appeal to the War Labor Board I promised to take up the matter with the board

"The drivers claim they are entitled to the same wages as the street car men I told them if they signed a wage agreement and could not reach a settlement on wages, the board could set up a subcommittee to review the whole matter, rectifying any injustices within the wage structure"

A delegation of union representatives yesterday interviewed Adam Bell deputy minister of labor, and it was reported he had told them a strike would be illegal

The special drivers' committee conferred with company officials most of yesterday afternoon and last night, but reached no agreement

The Bus Drivers' Association is attached to the Canadian Brotherhood of Railroad Employees and Other Transport Workers, Victoria Local No 234 A Hart is president

Drivers yesterday were informing as many passengers as possible there would be no buses operating today.

START DISTILLING

LONDON Jan. 5 (CP)—The big Campbelltown whisky distilleries in Scotland, idle since 1942, will resume production soon, it was disclosed today. Their output will depend on the barley quota, but informed sources say this is expected to be sufficient for three or four months of distilling

VETERANS RETURN

H Saunders and members of the board of control Sixty-one were sent to hospital on arrival They reached Canada this week on the hospital ship Letitia.

Salt for Americans

NANTES, France, Jan 5 (CP)—A locomotive and 30 carloads of salt moved through the German lines of the St. Nazaire pocket and were delivered to the American forces stationed here. The shipment was repayment by French civilians in the pocket for 600 tons of food sent into the pocket for them by the Americans December 30

A truce with the Germans permitted passage of the salt-laden train. The St Nazaire pocket includes one of the biggest salt deposits in the world.

CAPTURE PRISONER

STAYNER, Ont., Jan 5 (CP)—Irwin Stoekl German prisoner of war who escaped from a works project near Kenora, Ont., last month, was captured near here early today.

Police, who were notified by farmers suspicious of Stoekl's behavior, said they did not know how he had progressed so far east 1,050 miles from Kenora

Another prisoner who escaped with him, Wolfgang Bergter, 18, still is at large

OFFER FOR WRITERS

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP) — "Never has the motion picture industry offered Canadian writers the opportunities which now exist for themes dealing with the Dominion, provided they have box office appeal" John Grierson, commissioner of the National Film Board, said in an interview today Mr Grierson back from a fortnight's visit to Hollywood said Canada has assumed a new stature in the eyes of Americans.

Store Destroyed

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T., Jan 5 (CP) Fire destroyed the Hudson's Bay Company store and a warehouse here last night. Volunteer help saved considerable quantities of reserve stock. Damage was extensive, it was reported, but no estimate was immediately available.

Another warehouse adjoining the store was damaged, but a third was saved by the volunteers.

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (CP) Seven artillerymen helped clean up debris from a bombed pub here and stumbled on an unexpected dividend—554 tin pennies.

Reach Agreement With Germany On Exchange of War Prisoners

OTTAWA, Jan. 5 (CP).—Britain and Canada as well as the United States have reached an agreement with Germany for a further exchange of prisoners of war, it was learned today from an authoritative source.

The source said that it was expected that between 70 and 80 [illegible] British subjects the Germans have agreed to release.

The Canadians would return aboard the Swedish ship Gripsholm and would arrive in New York sometime in February. Names of the repatriates were not available as yet, but next of kin would be notified as soon as possible, the source said. There would be no Canadian civilians among the repatriates.

NO COUNTING OF HEADS

About 70 or 80 seriously sick and wounded German prisoners of war will be repatriated by Canada. It was merely a coincidence that the number of prisoners to be exchanged by Canada and Germany was about the same. There was no counting of heads in exchanges of prisoners, but there was in exchanges of civilian internees.

The Germans had reported that 1,756 British Commonwealth prisoners were repatriable. There was no way of breaking down the number, but from information gathered by the protecting power it was judged there would be only 70 or 80 Cana- [illegible]

The United States also had agreed with Germany on an exchange of prisoners. The German prisoners from Canada and the United States would sail from New York aboard the Gripsholm and the Canadian hospital ship Letitia on or about January 6

The ships would dock at Marseille and the exchange of prisoners would be made in Switzerland on or about January 17 and January 25.

It was expected that the Letitia would sail from Marseille to the United Kingdom with a load of repatriates and then resume her job of carrying Canadian wounded back to the Dominion. It was a case of the ship carrying a load of prisoners back across the ocean instead of returning empty, the source said.

Your Health and Your Weight

Jas. W. Barton, M.D

KNOWLEDGE OF NUTRITION
LENGTHENS LIFE'S USEFULNESS

A number of years ago the headmaster of one of our older private preparatory schools told me that the beds used at the school that were long enough for the sons of the original students were not long enough for the grandsons, and so new and longer beds had to be provided. He asked me what could be the cause because heredity had little or nothing to do with the fact that the grandsons entered the school at a younger age and with a longer body Thus these boys have bettered the records of their parents and grandparents in physical and mental development. As this improvement is not due to heredity, then some other factors are responsible for this improvement.

Further, although we were all surprised at the number of rejections of young men for entrance into the armed forces of the United States in World War II as compared with rejections in World War I, I must admit as president of a medical board in World War I our examinations were not as rigid or complete as in World War II, and so my opinion is the same as those who know best which is that when the examinations are compared "the average physique or recruits in World War II is better than that of like age in World War I."

How can we account for this improvement in physique despite the fact that the lives of more delicate children are now saved than was the case 30 or 40 years ago?

It is the knowledge of foods and their values and the knowledge of vitamins and minerals that is mostly responsible for the improvement in the physique of our boys, girls and young adults

"The growing knowledge of food and nutrition has improved physique and fitness during the past quarter century and undoubtedly the greatly increased nutritional knowledge of today makes possible a much further improvement

One of the facts now known is that no one food must be eaten to keep well. Other foods can replace what were formerly considered "must" foods. Also, as there are foods to which some individuals are allergic, other foods must take their place in the daily diet.

In their book, "An Introduction to Foods and Nutrition," Drs Henry C. Sherman and Caroline Sherman Lanford, Columbia University, state, "Regarding the relation of nutrition to physical fitness and success of the individual, there is now abundant evidence that better growth and development, higher attainment in stamina and working efficiency and a longer lease of healthier and more useful life may all be realized through the use of the newer knowledge of nutrition." It also seems clear that these benefits can all be realized by the same individual by slight or moderate changes in his present diet

What is proper nutrition? What are the foods that should be eaten daily?

I have spoken before of the groups of foods suggested by different medical and municipal agencies. To these may well be added the 12 groups of foods suggested by the United States Department of Agriculture.

1. Milk and milk products—cheese, butter, cream 2 Potatoes and sweet potatoes 3 Dry mature beans, peas and nuts. 4 Tomatoes, oranges and lemons. 5. Leafy, green and yellow vegetables 6 Other vegetables and fruits. 7 Eggs 8 Lean meat, poultry and fish. 9 Flours and cereals. 10 Butter. 11 Other fats. 12. Sugars

SHORT OF POLICEMEN

MONTREAL, Jan 5 (CP)—Police Director Fernand Dufresne said today that the manpower shortage on the Montreal police force had reached such a stage that on one particular night, there was only one constable to patrol Rosemount Ward a residential area with a population of about 50,000 He had asked army authorities to consider the release of all former Montreal constables from the armed forces, but he said he had received "little encouragement" in the proposal

DRASTIC SURGERY

NEW YORK, Jan 5 (AP)—Twenty-three United States missionaries declared today against "drastic surgery of Japanese nationhood" after the war The missionaries, who have lived in Japan Korea China, India or the Philippines, urged creation of an international authority, whose jurisdiction would extend to all countries, "the victors and the vanquished alike and all should participate in it without discrimination."

SAFE—FEET FROZEN

LOCKPORT, NY Jan. 5 (AP)—Chief Test Pilot Jack Woolams, of Bell Aircraft Corporation, parachuted to safety today when his jet-propelled fighter crashed near Lockport, but his feet were frozen during a mile and one-half walk to a farmhouse. The pilot's shoes fell off as he parachuted and he was forced to walk in his stocking feet.

SHOT BY DETECTIVE

ALBANY, N.Y., Jan 5 (AP)—Police Chief William J. Fitzpatrick, 57, was shot to death late today in his office and District Attorney Julian B Erway identified City Detective John W McElveney as the killer Police officers said the detective about 50 had been considered a good friend of Fitzpatrick

Little Stories for Bedtime

By THORNTON W. BURGESS

MOTHER NATURE'S HEALING TOUCH

It was even as Peter Rabbit and Sammy Jay and Mrs Grouse had told Lightfoot the Deer. He was safe, quite safe, in that thicket of young hemlock trees in that part of the Green Forest which belonged to Farmer Brown On a big tree in plain sight was a sign which forbade all hunting on that land Of course Lightfoot couldn't read that sign If he could have read it he might have felt easier in mind Neither could Peter Rabbit or Sammy Jay or Mrs. Grouse read that sign, but they had discovered for themselves that ever since it had been there no hunters had come that way, and they had felt sure that Lightfoot was safe and had told him so

Now Old Mother Nature keeps a watchful eye on all her children and she knew at once what had happened to Lightfoot It was she who prompted him to lick those dreadful wounds made by the shot from the hunter's terrible gun. In doing this he freed them of all dirt and this meant a better chance for them to heal Of course the little people of the Green Forest and the Green Meadows have no doctors to help them Old Mother Nature is their doctor and a wonderful doctor she is She proved this now with Lightfoot

With gentle touch she healed his wounds By means of the fear of being seen by another hunter she kept him quiet in his hiding place that his wounds might have a chance to heal By taking away his appetite she removed the chief cause from desire to move about So she had a chance to heal the wounds made by those cruel shots Where the skin had been torn she made new skin grow

After a couple of days when the healing had well started she gave him back a little appetite for if he lay too long without moving about he would grow stiff Besides, he needed food then to give him strength Of course he suffered No one can be hurt as he was and not suffer a great deal When he began to move about he was at first very stiff and sore and every movement hurt But little by little this wore off and he felt more and more like his old self You see no bones had been broken by those cruel shots Had bones been broken Mother Nature could not have mended those without help.

On a big tree in plain sight was a sign which forbade all hunting on that land

The days slipped by and the pain ceased. Lightfoot tried a low leap over a log and found he could do it His heart grew light, for he feared that he would never be able to run and leap as once he had done So Old Mother Nature healed his wounds with her gentle touch until once more Lightfoot was strong and carried his handsome head high, and ran and leaped as of old, and all his friends rejoiced Only on his shoulder was a long white mark to tell that a cruel shot had ploughed along there

But in Lightfoot's heart was a great fear from which he never would be free and a great distrust the fear and distrust of man Never again would he have faith in man, though he carried no terrible gun and did his best to appear friendly Though he could not understand why it should be man was his enemy And with this fear and distrust grew a wonderful cunning Never again would a hunter be able to surprise Lightfoot He had learned a bitter lesson, and one he would never forget

And often as he lay hidden in a thicket he would say over and over to himself What sort of creatures can those hunters be that they find pleasure in making those who are helpless and harmless suffer as I have suffered?

And the pine trees would whisper Heartless Heartless

Sane Experiment

The City has given tentative approval to the experiment of a Federal housing co-ordinator in the Victoria area. The idea appears a sound one, particularly as local autonomy and local advice are fully implied. It cannot be expected that one man, however able, will solve the problem of housing congestion in Victoria, but there should be much that can be done through the co-ordination of existing services. We like especially the fact that such an administrator, when appointed, will be able to treat with the three armed services directly and so avert much of the overlapping that has been present heretofore. The plan is worth an honest trial in any event, because there is no doubt that Victoria's troubles over shelter will only increase as war in the Pacific comes to its climax.

Elsewhere in Canada where a housing co-ordinator has been installed the plan at times met with some initial objection, but was found upon trial to work well. Technically, such an official would have very wide powers. A co-ordinator without powers, on the other hand, would be as useful only as a fifth wheel on a vehicle. The real test will come in the use made of that authority. If it is geared to community self-help, to voluntary co-operation between all housing interests, it should succeed; and should, moreover, bring all of the benefits of having one agency dealing with the subject.

If the City Council proceeds with the plan it has approved of in principle, the community should give the scheme a fair trial. Housing owners, real estate agencies, and all who are directly concerned in the result can improve present conditions if they continue to work together. The Federal co-ordinator will provide at least a rallying point, where confusion and tangles can be straightened out. Nobody knowing the facts would minimize the need of a better system of shelter management here. And today's needs are slight compared with what is bound to apply this Spring and in the Summer months. Even on the basis of an experiment, this looks like a sane approach.

The best schemes, however, are no better than the human agencies they employ. In this instance much will depend upon the capacity of the co-ordinator selected. He should know the community, and how to induce from it a whole-hearted response. If he has also the patience of Job and the wisdom of a Solomon, those qualities would be none too rare to help in what, after all, is a most difficult task in adjusting human relations. This community can be led, but it cannot be driven. It must always be shown the reasons first. That, in a sense, is what we are working at here.

Victoria can receive only a limited influx from anywhere, and must make the best use of whatever actual accommodation will be available. That is a community-wide task. Everyone must help at it, either under this formula or some other.

Saving or Fooling?

The individual who buys a Dominion of Canada bond in war with the object of saving is wise, and also fortunate. In some instances taxation takes so much from the home that there is not much left to save with. The individual, however, who buys a bond in a Victory Loan drive and sells it for cash a week later is neither wise nor fortunate. He is not saving but fooling, and the last laugh will be upon himself. Life has a strange trick of calling a bluff like that. It presents to the bond-less individual opportunities which might have made his fortune had he invested instead of jested. Fate has a rapacious sleeve into which it can laugh.

No thinking individual examining the world today would hesitate long in choosing the prudent man before the jokesmith. To save means to hold, and to hold with the assurance of obtaining better value later. To pretend to save is to deceive oneself. It accomplishes nothing, save perhaps the building of a false reputation for shrewdness. But a fool under any cloak will still be a fool. The prudent individual, in saving, is doing something tangible. He is taking work done and storing that against the day when he will not be able to work. He is investing in the light value dollars of today with the knowledge that he will be repaid in heavy value dollars in the peace. His money will not be idle. It will help Canada meanwhile. It will grow a little in the process. It is his whenever he cares to ask for it in a genuine emergency.

It is not likely that many Canadians have played at saving in the Victory Loan drives. A few have done so, and that is upon the record. The majority of Canadians, however, meant to help Canada and understood at the same time that they were also helping themselves. And it is they who will share the last laugh in this instance. They will be cashing their war bonds when peacetime dollars will be welcome in any hands. The jokers will have their memories slightly discounted by time.

Montgomery Again

The appointment of General Sir Bernard Montgomery as commander-in-chief of the northern armies in Europe, including British and American groups, was announced yesterday by the Allied Supreme Command. While the scope of the appointment and its duration have yet to be outlined, there is no doubt that the Allies are moving towards closer co-ordination in the field. The German counter-attack has taught us a sharp lesson, and the separated commands which succeeded the initial operations in Normandy have not worked out well. It is to be inferred from the preliminary announcement concerning General Montgomery that there will be an Allied commander in the south, and that both men will remain responsible to General Eisenhower.

Since he led British troops into the attack at El Alamein, General Montgomery has not known a major reverse in this war. The British Eighth Army, which he built into a magnificent fighting force, continues today under the impetus and inspiration which his skill furnished to it in the unexampled march through hundreds of miles of African desert, Tunisia, Sicily and Italy. It is spreading out now into the Valley of the Po, having pushed the enemy up the Adriatic coast without pause or rest. Similarly in Western Europe, General Montgomery led the main attack on the German West Wall at the Channel ports. Men under him held Caen against all and every German attempt to close out the Allied beachheads.

The battle then widened, and upon our side separate commands were instituted to take care of operations that were taking place hundreds of miles apart. The return now to a more unified form of command in the field is direct, and we are entitled to expect that it will lead to tangible results. General Montgomery is not the man to wait for the enemy to come to him. He will attack, when his formations are ready; and he will press any attack until a decision is reached. With the troops themselves, the general has become one of the most idolized men in the war.

Propaganda Revealing

Propaganda used in war is always revealing. It can be read in both directions. First it states what the enemy wishes the world to believe. Then, by sighting backward along the same trend, we learn what the enemy is most afraid of, either by his omissions or commissions in the text. For no man yet ever wrote three lines who did not disclose a little at least, of what was in his mind. Subject to such tests, the present fulminations of Doktor Goebbels are worth a little attention.

Goebbels boasts of a German victory to come. In the same breath, and quite often in the same paragraph, he asserts that the United Nations would crush Germany completely, and that there can be no thought of surrender. Now it is strange, but surrender does not go with victory. Of what is Dr. Goebbels afraid? Of defeat, of course. So he pulls the Atlantic Charter to ribbons, invents all of the horrors a victorious free world would wreak upon Germany, and dares anyone in the Reich to stop fighting in the face of those bogeys. The stolid Teuton must scratch his mind in some confusion. When, with Goebbels, will "victory" come? When, also with Goebbels, will the United Nations crush Germany? How can both things happen in the world at the same time?

Another instance was what the hard-working Doktor said in relation to Von Rundstedt's counter attack from the Siegfried Line. The Allies, he claimed, were surprised; they did not think that Germany had that much strength left in her, and, in the same breath, Von Rundstedt would go on to Paris, would sweep the Allies into the sea, and so forth. Strange again, this mention of "surprise." Was Germany, perhaps, surprised at the sortie from the Siegfried Line, knowing conditions within the Reich? Was Doktor Goebbels himself a little surprised? It would seem so. And yet the "drive on Paris" faded from the Berlin propaganda sheets inside of twenty four hours. It did not sound plausible, even to the Hun.

Strangest of all is Doktor Goebbels on the subject of Hitler. Hitler is alive. Hitler is well. Hitler is vigorous. Hitler will yet lead his Nazis to victory, says Goebbels. Hitler, of course, is important to the Reich. He is the symbol of the Nazi party, the rallying point in an ideology that is based upon fabricated values without much relation to human history. And yet this insistence upon having Hitler present in spirit, where he does not seem to be in body, is very interesting. Doktor Goebbels knows that a Himmler or a Goebbels would not serve so well. That neither of them is worshipped for himself. A two-edged weapon is propaganda. The Nazis seem to be cutting themselves on it more often than not at the present time.

From "When the Lamp . . ."

When the lamp is shattered
The light in the dust lies dead—
When the cloud is scattered,
The rainbow's glory is shed.
When the lute is broken
Sweet tones are remembered not;
When the lips have spoken,
Loved accents are soon forgot.

As music and splendour
Survive not the lamp and the lute,
The heart's echoes render
No song when the spirit is mute—
No song but sad dirges,
Like the wind through a ruined cell,
Or the mournful surges
That ring the dead seaman's knell . . .

Armies on Move

By L. S. B. SHAPIRO
North American Newspaper Alliance

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Jan. 5 (By Wireless).—The greatest battle of the campaign in the West is in the process of development—a battle greater even than that of Normandy in numbers of troops involved and in the imaginative nature of its concept.

Long before the German offensive into the Ardennes, the Allies had put into operation a plan for continuing the attack during the Win[ter] ... altered by recent events, but it is emerging now on a more ambitious scale than was previously envisaged.

The fact that the Germans have boldly abandoned their fixed defensive positions and are gambling their best remaining units in a battle of movement has produced quick reaction from the Allied High Command. If the Germans are to be denied the achievement of the supreme purpose of their offensive—a six months' delay in the Allied plan to thrust deeply into the Reich—their challenge must be accepted quickly and with commensurate boldness. This obviously will be done.

In modern war a challenge of movement can be countered successfully only by bigger, faster and more daring movement. The Allies have the manpower, material and mobility to conduct this type of warfare. We also have the additional assets of confidence and experience gained in the Normandy victory, which was won essentially by movement.

Whether by military design or political necessity, the Germans have shown no signs of altering the offensive characteristics of their dispositions, even though they have abandoned the initiative. The bulk of their Panzer divisions still remains exposed in the Ardennes salient. Their increasingly aggressive patrols in the Canadian sector and their modified offensive against the United States Seventh Army are certain signs that they have committed themselves to a Winter campaign of movement. This course is fraught with considerable danger for Field Marshal Von Rundstedt, particularly after we had demonstrated so conclusively in Normandy that we pack enough punch and speed to out-manoeuvre the Germans at this type of game.

This gives substance to the notion that Von Rundstedt is directing the battle with a political pistol at his head. The Allies are diverted by no political considerations and are moving to take advantage of a situation which has become suddenly fluid.

It is no military secret that we have many more divisions in the field than we had in Normandy, and that Von Rundstedt has thrown the bulk of his strategic reserves into the line. The result must be a battle on a scale never before believed possible under Winter conditions in Western Europe.

The German counter-offensive, therefore, has carried in its wake these two developments: First, it has forced the Allies to regard the whole front between Nijmegen and the Saar Valley as a single battlefield, rather than three distinct battle sectors; second, it has provided an opportunity to shorten the war by substituting movement and quick decision for slogging and protracted delay.

The Winter campaign will be fierce—and it may be decisive.

Not long ago the Keating Squire purchased a second-hand radio set for what he calls the den in his farmhouse. When a radio technician arrived to connect the outfit, the Squire noticed that the wiring was somewhat frayed in several places. "Will I get a shock?" he asked. "Only at the quality of the programs," the technician laughed . . . Rt. Hon. Herbert Morrison, British Minister of Home [Security], remarked during a recent interview: "Full trade union organization and an efficient trades union congress are of national advantage. Similarly, employers' associations for collective thinking and negotiations are good. But clearly, it is important that neither should get to the point where they try to dominate the machinery and policy of government. They have the right to influence and persuade it, but they have no right to give it orders" . . . King Henry VIII, a large eater, was once so pleased with a succulent joint of beef placed before him that he inquired its name. "Loin, sire," his cook replied. The King declared: "In future it shall have a more honorable title." Drawing his sword, he exclaimed: "Arise, Sir Loin." Thus was created sirloin of beef . . . . More than 40 large companies, including Cunard, P. & O., Elder Dempster, Furness Withy, Anchor Line and Union Castle, are making plans for air transportation after the war . . . Miles of catacombs, vaults and tunnels under Rome were built by early Christians 1,700 years ago and used until the year 410 for burials and religious meetings. They were excavated in such a manner that nobody could ever be fully familiar with them. . . . The number of persons employed in the airplane industry in England is expected to drop from 2,000,000 to 200,000 after the war.

J. S. WOODSWORTH

Sir,—On October 7, 1944, Frank H. Underhill delivered in Toronto an address at the inauguration of the Ontario Woodsworth Memorial Foundation, which address has been printed in a booklet under the title "James Shaver Woodsworth—Untypical Canadian."

Having heard Mr. Woodsworth speak at several meetings and over the radio, I always appreciated the fact that he—a former church minister—never used those opportunities to try to make propaganda for "churchianity." Since reading this booklet, it is more clear to me why he did not do that; he did not believe in "churchianity"; he lived every day of his life according to Christian principles, which are the same as those of other main religions, older and younger alike.

In June, 1918, he concluded his letter of resignation from the Methodist Church with: "Apparently the church feels that I do not belong and reluctantly I have been forced to the same conclusion." That was 1918. A quarter of a century later, the churches showed to believe so little in "freedom of religion" for others, that through their pressure, the Government of British Columbia—with the help of the Coalition M.L.A.s—went so far as to violate that "freedom of religion," guaranteed in the B.N.A. Act, by forcing the reading of the man-made Bible in the schools and so making the teaching of "superstition" part of the school curriculum.

There are very few Canadians who come up in character, forthrightness, etc., to the height of this "untypical Canadian"; he is towering far above the others. His real philosophy of life speaks best out of the "Prayer" he wrote in 1920 for the Winnipeg Labor Church.

F. H. STAVERMAN
Langford Lake, V.I., January 5, 1945.

Editor's Note: There is no "forced" reading of the Bible in British Columbia schools. No teacher is obliged to do so if that is against his, or her, conviction. No student is obliged to attend. The personal tribute to the late Mr. Woodsworth will be re-echoed by many who knew the man.

The bidding:

South's two no trump bid was, of course, motivated by the 30 part-score. He felt that four-odd in clubs could not be made.

West opened the three of hearts and East, a shrewd player, blandly put up the ace, denying that he had the king, and promptly returned the heart deuce. Declarer could not be blamed much for guessing wrong and putting in the 10-spot in an effort to force out the king. West, of course, won with the jack and continued the suit, East collecting the king and nine, while declarer discarded a low club. East now shifted to the diamond four. South tried the queen finesse and, of course, it failed. On this trick West woodenly followed suit with the diamond deuce.

Now South led the club king. East won and naturally thinking that his adversary had started with the ace-queen-jack of diamonds, in which case he would have ... discarded ... the queen, shifted to the tune of spades. This was just what declarer needed. He won and knocked out the club queen, then could claim the rest of the tricks.

If West had co-operated properly in the diamond suit, he would have given an emphatic come-on signal by playing the jack or 10 on East's first lead of the suit, and the defenders could have taken two diamond tricks instead of none.

Last Link With C.P.R. Founders Dies

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP).—Walter Scott Stout, chairman of the Canadian Pacific Express Company, died today at his home, aged 87. His death broke the last surviving link with the founders of the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Dean of expressmen on the continent and one of the leading originators of the present-day fast express service, Mr. Stout began his career in 1875 as an office boy with the United States Express Company, in Havanna, Ill.

In 1883 the late Sir William Van Horne asked Mr. Stout, then 24, to organize express operations on the C.P.R.'s lines in the West, from Rat Portage (now Kenora) to Oak Lake, Man. His headquarters were at Winnipeg. There he laid the plans for future development of express service and in 1884 his headquarters were moved to Toronto, where he was successively superintendent, general manager, vice-president, president and chairman of the board of the C.P. Express Company.

A Cox Mr. Cox is lecturing at McGill University while working toward his Ph.D. degree They stopped off at Toronto and in Vancouver spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. W. J. E. Synthetic Rubber to Be Used for Girdles

OTTAWA, Jan 5 (CP) — Women should wait a little longer before going to the nearest service station for a retread job on their aging rubber girdles for soon they'll be able to get a synthetic elastic one — the Prices Board says so.

At present corset counters are stacked with old-fashioned stays — the hang-on-the-bedpost-and-lace-them-up-the-back kind while Miss Canada of 1945 patches what remains of her precious two-way stretch number.

New supplies of girdles now are being made and are expected on the market shortly Supplies of neoprene, a synthetic latex suited to the production of rubber thread were released recently to girdle manufacturers.

Since there has been no restriction on the use of steel for corsets there has been no shortage of the old-fashioned stays.

Women on Industrial Front Stand Back of Men Overseas

Shortages of essential war tools and urgently needed ammunition broke down prejudices against employment of women, even among the women themselves, Mrs. Rex Eaton, associate director of National Selective Service, Ottawa, declared yesterday at a meeting of the Women's Regional Advisory Board, Consumer Branch, W P T B held in the Belmont Building An unusually large and representative gathering of women heard the talk depicting women's place in industry and the functions of N S S.

"Fundamentally our women have been working for the success of the war," Mrs. Eaton stated "They want fair pay, but it is the keen desire to stand back of their men overseas, that brings housewives flocking to take full or part-time jobs whenever a bottleneck threatens in industry" However, they needed encouragement if they were to continue their contribution

Absenteeism, the speaker asserted, was not much more serious among women than among men, and employers readily accepted the obvious reasons, such as home responsibilities of married women. Absenteeism among part-time workers did not exceed that of full-time employees, she said

At present some 30,000 more women could be absorbed into industry throughout Canada, Mrs. Eaton said they were especially needed in the highly industrialized areas. In Toronto some 4,000 additional workers were needed and in Montreal the shortage was from 8,000 to 9,000 On the Pacific Coast there was probably a surplus because of slowing down of some industries, but it was difficult to transfer women workers to the East. Only those 19 or over who had housing arranged in advance were transferred, the speaker asserted, and in all cases it meant uprooting of home ties

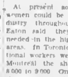

A member of the audience asked why some industries could not be transferred to the Pacific Coast to which Mrs Eaton commented that it presented considerable difficulties

Describing functions of the National Selective Service Mrs Eaton said this body worked in close co-operation with the Department of Munitions and Supply and the W P T B and controlled and rationed man and woman power In all questions concerning women employees, she was consulted

"The number of women drawn into industry for purely patriotic reasons is astonishing," the speaker declared Even in the unglamorous textile industry and in menial work, women had responded to appeals made by the Local Council of Women and other organizations In each instance we got our quota The only resource we have very often, is an appeal to women's organizations, and the response has been splendid Three important factors in industry were supply of labor, supply of materials and distribution of products in fair quantities to the different districts of the Dominion W P T B undertook to give limiting directives when a product seemed to be in short supply, while N S S helped meet labor situations presented to them by the Department of Munitions. Their response was instantaneous and they recruited the women required by war industries to meet quotas

Priorities were established early in the war, Mrs Eaton said, by the three interested bodies. In 'A' category were manufacture of shells, high explosives, planes, guns and hospitals, the latter the only civilian service rated equally with war necessities. In 'B' category came essential civilian services and products In emergencies women were encouraged to proceed to work of the higher category

Mrs Eaton was introduced by Mrs Paul Smith, chairman of the W R A C, who accompanied the speaker from Vancouver.

thrusts hitting southward at the German salient said a field dispatch from an Associated Press war correspondent

Field Marshal Montgomery now is leading four armies

Gen Bradley whose Twelfth Army Group had comprised the United States First, Ninth and Third Armies took the Southern Command, directing the Third Army's assault northward against the German penetration His new command also includes one division of the United States Seventh Army

Two American air groups also come under Field Marshal Montgomery's over-all command by the shift He and Gen Bradley both still are directly responsible to Gen Eisenhower

At the same time it was disclosed Prime Minister Churchill had returned to London after conferring with Gen Eisenhower and Field Marshal Montgomery on the Continent

While Gallagher said Field Marshal Montgomery took over on December 20-21 during the most critical stage Gen George C Marshall in Washington said the British leader assumed charge on the second night of the German offensive which was launched December 16

Lt.-Gen Jacob L. Devers' Sixth Army Group farther south which includes the United States Seventh and French First Armies, remained unchanged in this tactical shuffle.

The high tide of German reconquest began to recede the day after Field Marshal Montgomery took charge on the north He mapped out the counter-blows.

NEW YORK Jan 6 (Saturday) (CP) The transfer of command of the United States First and Ninth Armies to Field Marshal Montgomery was viewed editorially today by The New York Times as a 'logical' move, dictated by circumstances

The newspaper added

"It is unfortunate that announcement of the new command alignment was not made promptly, since it is difficult to see of what value the information could have been to the Germans and since the delay has given ammunition to critics in both the United States and Britain

The Herald Tribune also approved the move and termed it a tribute to the flexibility unity and military skill at the disposal of Supreme Allied Headquarters"

• Authorities say the difference between husky children and those who are poor eaters, underweight and nervous is often simply a matter of proper nourishment, especially an adequate supply of vitamins.

But vitamins alone are not enough. For authorities now agree that vitamins do not work alone. They work as a team with certain other food elements.

For this reason, thousands are switching to Ovaltine. Unlike mere "vitamin carriers," Ovaltine, food beverage contains not only extra vitamins but nearly all the precious food elements needed for health and top vitality. These include Vitamins A, B1 and D, the important minerals calcium, phosphorus and iron, high quality proteins and quick energy fuel-food—a combination of food elements Authorities agree are needed for best results.

So, if your child is thin, nervous and not developing properly, why not turn to Ovaltine as thousands are doing. Three normal meals plus two glasses of Ovaltine a day give your child all the extra amounts of vitamins and minerals needed for health and top vitality. 164

From Europe

E.L.A.S. must make its terms at once ... monarchist parties, who for the moment control the temporary government, are free to make their terms with a new government, and naturally the People's Liberation Army is suspicious.

British efforts to bring about a settlement are prejudiced by the presence of their troops on one side of the battle. Unless a truce and settlement can be made quickly, concludes The Times, the visit of Premier Churchill to Athens and the aspirations and achievements of the Greek resistance movement will be wholly undone and abortive.

Appointment of Dr. Fisher, Bishop of London, as new Archbishop of Canterbury, says The Times, will cause little surprise and give general satisfaction.

He has remarkable powers as an administrator and his intellectual gifts were obvious even when a student at Oxford. He has great skill in expounding intricate proposals and in conciliating opinions other than his own. He has the warm personal regard of his clergy.

Germans have burned down two more Polish towns, one named Jaslo, near Cracow, with 14,000 people, and a second named Opalow, with 10,000 people, near Kielce. INDIANS ON RAMPAGE

GALLUP, N.M., Jan. 5 (AP).—Navajo Indians kidnapped two Indian employees and the wife of one of them in an outbreak yesterday against a livestock reduction program to cut the livestock to the range's carrying capacity. Eight young bucks trussed up the three and sped them off to an isolated hogan (Navajo hut of logs and mud) where they were rescued by Navajo policemen and brought to Shiprock, N.M., last night. Three Indians were arrested and five others are sought.

Audet Adds to Bag of Planes

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP).—Flt.-Lieut. Dick Audet, of Lethbridge, Alta., destroyed a German Focke-Wulf 190 yesterday and shared in the destruction of another at raise to seven and a half his bag of enemy planes knocked down in a week, the R.C.A.F. reported.

Flt. Lieut. Audet, who shot down five German planes in a little more than five minutes last Friday and got two more New Year's Day, shared one plane yesterday with Flt. Lieut. J. J. Boyle, of Toronto.

The German planes downed were among six destroyed by the R.C.A.F. Grizzly Bear Squadron in a mid-afternoon fight against seven aircraft just northeast of Hengelo, Holland.

Tribute Paid to Canadian Airmen

LONDON, Jan. 5 (CP).—The magazine Aeroplane, as a "tribute to all the ranks of the R.C.A.F.," today devoted 24 pages to the history and war activities of Canada's Air Force, now the fourth largest in the world.

A foreword by Air Marshal L. S. Breadner, air officer commanding the R.C.A.F. overseas, expressed the hope that the stories and pictures of the R.C.A.F. "may contribute to a better understanding of the splendid co-operative effort which has made possible the achievement of Allied air supremacy."

A prominent place is given to operations of the British Commonwealth air training plan, now closing down, which Aeroplane said turned out 80,503 R.C.A.F. air crew as well as 29,065 R.A.F. and 8,067 Royal Australian Air Force and Royal New Zealand Air Force crew.

Material for the issue was provided by the R.C.A.F. Public Relations Branch.

Describing the work of Canadian fighter pilots in the fighter-bomber group commanded by Air Vice Marshal Harry Broadhurst, Aeroplane said:

"Of 532 German aircraft shot down by Broadhurst's group since the invasion, no less than 472 have been credited to R.C.A.F. pilots, both in Canadian and R.A.F. squadrons. proportionately, the same applies to probables and damaged planes."

LONDON (CP).—A closer watch on aircraft coming from the continent has been instituted following reports that there is much smuggling of luxury articles.

Says Situation Parallels Italy

VANCOUVER, Jan. 5 (CP).—The situation on the Western Front at the present time parallels that in Italy a year ago and Allied soldiers will eventually overcome the enemy on the Rhine as they overcame him along the Tiber, Peter Stursberg, C.B.C. war correspondent, told a service club meeting here today.

Pte. Ernest A. (Smokey) Smith, V.C., of New Westminster, was also a guest at the meeting.

Mr. Stursberg said aerial bombing of enemy-held cities had been a failure in his own experience. More than 1,000 tons of bombs had been dropped on Cassino.

"Before the bombing we held two-thirds of Cassino. After the bombing Cassino was missing, but the Germans were not missing. Soon they held two-thirds of the town. Such bombing does not help the infantry and the rubble it creates handicaps the movement of tanks and mechanized support."

CAPITOL THEATRE George Coulouris, one of our most talented character actors, has one of the best parts of his career in R.K.O. Radio's new drama of London's East End, "None but the Lonely Heart," starring Cary Grant, and featuring Ethel Barrymore and playing at the Capitol Theatre. He portrays Jim Mordinoy, cafe owner and head of a 'smash-and-grab' gang, who wields an evil influence over Ernie Mott, the cockney character played by Grant.

ATLAS THEATRE The ghosts of a distinguished line of lavish musicals danced recently at the 20th Century-Fox studios during the filming of its newest musical extravaganza. Through the medium of rich costumes, memories of a parade of former hits were revived in "Greenwich Village," the lavish new Technicolor musical showing for the last times today at the Atlas Theatre, starring Carmen Miranda, Don Ameche, William Bendix and Vivian Blaine.

OAK BAY AND PLAZA THEATRES "The Climax," written for the screen by Curt Siodmak and Lynn Starling, from the play by Edward Locke, marks Boris Karloff's return to the screen after an absence of three years, during which time he went back to the stage in "Arsenic and Old Lace." In that time he assisted in 16,800 "murders," during the long run of 1,400 performances. "The Climax" is playing at the Oak Bay and Plaza Theatres, and co-stars Karloff with Susanna Foster and Turhan Bey, who appear as lovers.

CADET THEATRE Maisie is back in action again and that means laughs and fun for everyone. Her newest Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring picture, "Maisie Goes to Reno" is currently showing at the Cadet Theatre. "Maisie Goes to Reno" is a fast-moving, hilarious piece of movie entertainment, a film you'll want to see. Ann Sothern, for, of course, she plays Maisie again—is at her freshest and buoyant best in the new picture.

YORK THEATRE With much of its [illegible] action filmed against the striking scenery of Northern New Mexico, and with more than 1,000 Indians participating in the spectacular climax, R.K.O. Radio's "Valley of the Sun" currently playing at the York Theatre, is said to be an unusually noteworthy screen offering. Lucille Ball, James Craig, Dean Jagger, Sir Cedric Hardwicke and other noted players head the cast of the romantic action-comedy, which is based on the novel serial by Clarence Budington Kelland.

RIO THEATRE The Bumsteads are at it again with Hugh Herbert to add to Blondie's woes. When the only guy who's dizzier than Dagwood tries to straighten Dagwood out look out for the funniest Blondie since the laugh-packed series began. All in all "It's a Great Life" is a great comedy, funniest of all the Bumstead hits. It is now playing at the Rio Theatre.

DOMINION THEATRE Two women [illegible] in [illegible] motivate the plot of R.K.O. Radio's new and thrilling drama of the old west, "Tall in the Saddle," playing at the Dominion Theatre, starring John Wayne and Ella Raines. Wayne plays a tall and tough ranch foreman with an aversion for women. What happens when he is hired by a ranch owned by beautiful, fiery-tempered Ella Raines, makes an action-packed drama.

SPORTS SLANTS

By SID THOMAS

SATURDAY MORNING PROGNOSTICATIONS

After batting 100 per cent in this column on December 9 by picking six winners out of six events the prognostication department has been resting on its laurels and, like many other departments, taking advantage of the festive season lull. However, there is work to be done and winners to be named in today's events, so here goes.

Pat Bay Gremlins vs. Alpine Dairy

Here, neighbors, appears to be the basketball classic of the New Year. Alpine Dairy, Northwest A.A.U. champions for the past two seasons, pitted against Pat Bay Gremlins, former Canadian national titleholders. Alpines, according to all reports, have a pretty smart club, and their 46-28 victory over the Varsity Thunderbirds, a team which gave the Gremlins plenty of tough competition and defeated them in one game here, should make the Seattle-ites stand out like a sore thumb. However, after doing a little mathematical figuring and allowing for the fact that the Gremlins are playing at home, we look for a tough struggle. And what's more if Messrs Norm Baker and "Porky" Andrews get "hot" we look for the Gremlins to win by about six points. Bob Whyte, official scorer, sides with your prognosticator, but Brother Reilly, coach of St. Louis College, and Jack Phillibn, league secretary, like Alpine Dairy by 12 points.

Hudson's Bay vs. Unitys

Experience will be with Coach Wally Yeamans' Unitys here, but the Hudson's Bay, showing improvement every time out, could upset the dope sheet. Bays' players will trot out in dazzling new green and gold one-piece uniforms, which will add a lot of color to the fixture, but we cannot see the green and gold putting the Unitys off their stride. Take it away Unitys by at least ten points.

Victoria West vs. V.M.D.

Greenshirts and shipbuilders will be battling in the first soccer game of the New Year when they meet this afternoon on a heavy pitch at Royal Athletic Park. Rival squads will be missing some of their key players, but just the same we look for a keen match. Victoria Wests have the odd triumph over V.M.D. to their credit and will increase that margin today. Greenshirts by two goals.

GATHERED FROM HERE AND THERE

Pte. Doug Bray, who reverted from the rank of sergeant to go overseas, is now with No 1 Canadian Infantry Training Regiment, overseas, according to a letter received yesterday from Capt. Alf Satcheler, sports officer. Bray is playing basketball in the Old Country and recently pushed up eight points as his team won from another soldier quintette. Pte Bray is perhaps best known for his exploits on the Rugby field and the box lacrosse enclosure, where he performed brilliantly many times . . . Capt Alf Batchelor will be remembered as Alf Batcheler, in charge of Pro Rec training here in the days before the war. In his letter Capt Batcheler said in part: "Recently I met some of the old members of the Pro Rec, including Alan White, of Lake Hill, Harry Gray and Bob Daldall, of North Saanich, Mal and Dunc Lorimer, of Sooke, Costello and DeMacedo, of Victoria, and several others. If in some way you could pass the word that the boys are all in good fettle over here, I'd appreciate it a lot" . . . Here you are Alf. No sooner said than done. It is indeed a pleasure to pass along any words from you fine lads "Over There" . . . Ivan Temple Minor Hockey Association impresario, is very happy today. The reason, Mr Temple has it in writing from the Pacific Coast Junior Hockey League that the Victoria Minor Hockey Association will be given the Victoria franchise in that circuit. And he pipes up: "I sincerely hope it will be in the Fall of 1945." We are all with you on that statement, Mr Temple . . . Tex Rickard, who ranks with the greatest fight promoters of all time died at Miami Beach 16 years ago today—from acute appendicitis. It was Rickard who lifted the fisticuffing pastime from the "ham and egg" class into the field of big business. The great "Tex" started his sports promotion career in 1930 at Goldfields, Nevada, and in intervening years made millionaires of two heavyweight champions, Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney.

Zivic Scores Over Young Billy Arnold

Veteran Scrapper Halts Winning Streak Of 18-Year-Old Boxer in Garden Melee

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP).—Old Fritzie Zivic, of Pittsburgh, sprang a major boxing upset tonight by handing youthful Billy Arnold, of Philadelphia, the first defeat of his meteoric career in winning an eight-round decision at Madison Square Garden.

The 31-year-old Zivic, a 5-to-1 underdog in the betting, stunned a crowd of 16,923 by outsmarting the Philadelphia high school student who previously was unbeaten in 31 scraps. The gross gate was $57,576.

Pacing himself beautifully, the cagey Zivic, former welterweight champion and veteran of 14 years in the ring, took everything Arnold threw, and twice in the fifth and eighth rounds staggered his 18-year-old opponent with vicious lefts and rights.

Judge Marty Monroe voted five rounds for Zivic and three for Arnold. Referee Arthur Donovan gave four to Zivic, two to Arnold and called two even. Judge Jack Gordon gave each four rounds.

The Associated Press score card had Zivic winning five rounds to two with one even.

The 153-pound Zivic, on a 15-day furlough from his duties as an army corporal at a Texas camp, let the 144-pound Arnold force the fight all the way, but he made the Philly negro look silly time and again by ducking and sliding away.

At times during the third round, however, Arnold cornered the Pittsburgher against the ropes and hammered home lefts and rights that left Zivic's face a reddish glow when the bell rang.

In the fifth, Zivic drove Arnold halfway across the ring with a hard right and after Arnold rallied briefly in the sixth closed fast to take the last two rounds. He drew blood from Arnold's nose in the seventh and in the eighth had Arnold hanging on the ropes.

Dolan Beats Ken Lindsay

SPOKANE, Wash., Jan. 5 (AP).—Joey Dolan, 125, of Spokane, won a close ten-round decision tonight from Ken Lindsay, 124, of Vancouver, Canadian bantamweight boxing champion.

Fighting his last match before entering the armed forces, the Spokane claimant to the Pacific Coast featherweight title achieved the unanimous decision of two judges and the referee in a fight which featured both clever boxing and solid punching.

Lindsay, a member of the Royal Canadian Air Force, received a slight cut over an eyebrow in the ninth round, but neither boxer was badly damaged in the contest and both were slugging with unabated vigor at the final bell.

The referee, Chief Specialist Barney Felix, of Farragut Naval Training Centre, former secretary of the New York Referees' Association, credited Dolan with six rounds, Lindsay with three and called one even.

Lindsay concentrated on body punching, pouncing in whenever he saw an opening. Dolan kept a left flickering at the Canadian's head.

In the last two rounds the boxers slugged it out. In the final round, both men were bouncing off the ropes in turn as they tried for the knockdown that was never achieved by either.

Lindsay was able to appear on the card by special permission of the Canadian Government. Colonel William J. Keunard, commanding officer of Fort George Wright expressed appreciation to the Canadian Government for allowing Lindsay to compete. The fight was a benefit for the fort's convalescent soldiers.

R.C.A.F. Hockey Players Posted

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5 (CP).—Four members of R.C.A.F. Bombers in the Winnipeg Inter-Services Senior Hockey League have been posted overseas and will probably make their last appearance with the club against Army Monday night.

The players, all former N.H.L. performers, are L.A.C. Pete Langelle, L.A.C. Alf Pike, L.A.C. Paul Platz and L.A.C. Bob Whitelaw.

Langelle toiled with Toronto Maple Leafs, Pike with New York Rangers, Platz with Chicago Black Hawks and Whitelaw with Detroit Red Wings.

Army Hoopsters to Meet Roofing Team

Army cagers, recently moved up to the senior "B" men's division of the Victoria and District Basketball League, will make their bow in that section next Monday evening when they stack up against the league-leading Victoria Roofing in the feature attraction of a triple card at the High School gymnasium.

Men's senior "C" squads will play in the two preliminary contests. Chinese Students will oppose Douglas Tire in the curtain-raiser with West Road and Hillcrest Fuel in the sandwich fixture.

Complete card and starting times follow:

7.00—Chinese Students vs. Douglas Tire, senior "C" men.

8.00—West Road vs. Hillcrest Fuel, senior "C" men.

9.00—Army vs. Victoria Roofing, senior "B" men.

Cully Simon Joins Black Hawks Today

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP).—Defenceman Cully Simon will join the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League in Montreal tomorrow, Manager Jack Adams, of the Detroit Red Wings, said today.

Simon is one of three players the Red Wings traded to the Black Hawks earlier in the week for Defenceman Earl Seibert. The others were forwards Don Grosso and Butch McDonald.

Asked about reports Simon refused to report to Hawks, Adams said: "Cully will join the Black Hawks in Montreal tomorrow. He's been spending a day or two at Petawawa and will be at his home at Brockville tonight. Then he'll go to Montreal."

Adams was enthusiastic about Seibert's play in his first start with Detroit against New York Rangers in New York last night. Of tomorrow night's game with the Toronto Maple Leafs here he only said: "We'll be in there plugging."

Black Hawks play Montreal Canadiens in Montreal tomorrow night.

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP).—Chicago Black Hawks, winner of only three of 22 games in the National Hockey League this season, today made another move eventually to strengthen the club by releasing Clifford (Fido) Purpur, 29-year-old right-winger, to Detroit Red Wings.

Purpur, with the Hawks four years, will be exchanged for a Detroit player to be named before the close of the season. Purpur reports to the Red Wings in Toronto tonight.

Fire One-Under-Par 70's to Set Pace In Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 5 (AP).—Defending Champion Harold McSpaden and the former New York baseball player, Sam Byrd, long since turned golf pro, shot one-under-par 70's today to tie for first round leadership of the 19th annual 72-hole Los Angeles open.

McSpaden, now registering from Sanford, Me., coupled a 34 and 36 for the round. Byrd played the 7,000-yard Riviera course in 36-34.

The below-par feats were the only two racked up from a field of 132 pros and amateurs in the initial 18 holes of the $13,333 War Bond event, concluding next Monday.

Eight topnotchers, including the tournament co-favorites, Sam Snead and Byron Nelson, finished in a tie at par 71. The others were Tony Penna, Chick Rutan, John Revolta, amateur Bruce McCormick, Claude Harmon and Ray Mangrum.

The United States open champion, Craig Wood, of Mamaroneck, N.Y., fiddled through a round of 75. Denny Shute, twice P.G.A. titlist and former British open champion, wallowed around for a 76, while two-time former United States open titlist Ralph Guldahl withdrew. Guldahl has failed to finish in the money in the last five tournaments.

Among the day's highlights were a hole-in-one, bagged by George McInerney, of Huntington Park, Calif., and the blow-up of Leonard Ott, of Denver, whose starting 81 was a far cry from such previous efforts as a third-round 65 in the recent Richmond open.

The only woman entry, Mrs. George (Babe Didrikson) Zaharias, Los Angeles, put together 37-39 for a 76 that enabled her to top many of the male performers.

Plans Going Ahead For Civilian Team

With eight former "Rep" players ready to return to the game, and further prospects of additional playing material, efforts being made to organize a civilian Rugby fifteen for the second half of the senior schedule looked much brighter last night, according to Campbell Forbes, coach of the Victoria McKechnie Cup squad.

Forbes stated that workouts will be held at Macdonald Park next Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7.30 o'clock, with an open invitation to all former Rugby players to attend the training sessions.

Players attending the workouts are Don Dalziel, Albie Williams, Ritchie Williams, Doug Willard, George Langdon, Dunc Turner, Bugs Anderson and Alec Briggs.

Lear Named Coach of Winnipeg Hockey Club

WINNIPEG, Jan. 6 (CP).—Les Lear, who played professional football last Fall with Cleveland Rams in the United States Professional League, today was named coach of Winnipeg Esquires-Redwings in the Winnipeg Junior North Division Hockey League. He succeeds Bob Kinnear, who will become president of the club. The team is sponsored by Detroit Redwings.

Tax Board Chairman Returns to Bench

SAINT JOHN, N.B., Jan. 5 (CP).—Announcement of the retirement of Mr. Justice W. H. Harrison, Saint John, as chairman of the board of referees under the Excess Profits Tax Act, was made tonight. Appointed to the position November 1, 1940, he will return to his judicial duties in the chancery and appeal division of the New Brunswick Supreme Court.

He will be succeeded to the board of referees chairmanship by Mr. Justice Hyndman, of the Alberta Supreme Court, now living in Ottawa. Other members of the board of referees, Charles P. Fell, of Toronto and Kenneth W. Dalgelish of Montreal, also are retiring from active participation with the board but it is understood they will continue as nominal members and be available for short periods if their services are required.

Names of K. A. Mapp, Toronto chartered accountant, and T. N. Kirby, Ottawa, secretary of the board, have been mentioned as possible new members.

Gene Sarazen Censures Golf Clubs for Charging Troops

By WHITNEY MARTIN

Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP).—Hot blasts usually come in from the south, so it was only natural for Gene Sarazen to blow in from that direction with a few choice remarks about the treatment of servicemen by some golf clubs in southern territory.

The exact location of the clubs which aroused the squire's ire was not specified, but inasmuch as he had just returned from the Miami sector, where he competed in a tournament, the general location may be deduced.

"Some of the clubs are charging servicemen up to $2 green fees," he charged. "Put the caddy fees on top of that and it's more than the men can afford. And some of these fellows are back home after completing 50 missions, and are looking for a little healthful recreation.

"On top of that, the tournament in which I took part had a field that included nearly 40 per cent servicemen. Hardly any of them had any chance at all of getting any prize money out of it, yet they had to plunk down their $10 entry fee just like civilians.

"It's my contention that servicemen should be permitted to play on any course without paying a greens fee, and should be permitted to enter any tournament without paying a fee. That's the least that could be done for them."

We wouldn't know how general the practice is, either in Florida or in other parts of the country, of charging servicemen green fees and tournament entry fees, but apparently enough of such penny pinching came to Sarazen's notice to arouse his resentment.

He's right, of course, about servicemen being given every possible opportunity to play golf without having to touch their pocketbooks.

The boys are giving up too much as it is, and aren't getting too much money. What they can save will come in handy after the war, and they can't save much if they are forced to pay civilian rates for their pleasure.

Delay Action On Agreement Until Feb. 2

CHICAGO, Jan. 5 (AP).—A ...-member committee representing the American and National Baseball Leagues met here today to draft a new major league agreement but potentially concurred only in setting a date for another conference which will be held in New York February 2.

Whatever sentiments were expressed by five officials from each league regarding a pact to replace the 24-year-old agreement under which the late Kenesaw Mountain Landis ruled baseball with an iron hand were not disclosed after a three-hour closed session.

Will Harridge, American League president, who with Ford Frick, National circuit head, sat in with the owners, released a statement which said the agreement was merely "discussed generally" today and will be whipped into formal shape for presentation to the committee February 2.

At ... meeting which ... before a joint meeting of the leagues also to be held in New York the committee will decide upon its final recommendations, Harridge said.

It had been expected the meeting would last two days and might produce informal discussion of ... to Landis, who died ... a ... commissioner. The ... had been ... however, only to draft an agreement.

REVIEW OF YEAR IN SPORTS

FEBRUARY

Top Junior Teams Look Quite Safe

WINNIPEG, Jan. 5 (CP).—Junior hockey schedules at the Lakehead and in the Prairie Provinces are still in their initial stages but the league finalists, barring upsets which could only be classed as startling, are already apparent. The Western Canada senior picture remains clouded.

At the present time, Port Arthur Flyers, league champions last Spring, appear certain to repeat in the Thunder Bay Junior League, while Winnipeg Monarchs top the six teams in the Manitoba junior loop by a wide margin. Moose Jaw Canucks have a secure grip on first place in the South Saskatchewan League and Canadians are undefeated in Edmonton junior competition.

At the Lakehead, Port Arthur Shipbuilders are the only senior team and are casting about for opposition to give them the form that carried them into the Allan Cup finals against Quebec Aces last Spring.

Flyers dominate the junior league with 11 straight victories—nine in the pre-season Rory McLeod Memorial series and two in regular league games. Navy, with one win and a loss appear to lack the power to stay with the Flyers.

Air Force have too much power for the other teams in the Manitoba Inter-Services Senior League and lead by a wide margin. Army and Navy are battling one point apart for second place. A trial senior series is being held in the province between Esquire-Red Wings and MacDonald Airports, with a view to entering the Allan Cup championships. Esquires won both games played to date.

MONARCHS DOMINATE MANITOBA SCENE

The South Division Monarchs dominate the Manitoba junior scene. Unbeaten so far, they outclass St. James Canadians and the improved Winnipeg Rangers. Esquire-Red Wings, unbeaten in the North Division, met defeat at the hands of Monarchs in both games of a two-game exhibition series for the Charlie Gardiner Memorial Trophy. The Wings, however, have a good lead over St. Boniface and Canadian Ukrainian Athletic Club in the North Division.

In the South Saskatchewan Junior League, Canucks have lost only once in ten starts and hold a seven-point lead over Regina Commandos, only team still conceded a chance to gain the league leadership. Notre Dame Hounds and Regina Abbotts are trailing.

In the north, Prince Albert and Saskatoon Varsity are tied for the league leadership, one point ahead of Navy. There is no senior league in the province.

Currie Army and Calgary R.C.A.F. Mustangs are neck-and-neck for leadership of the Alberta Senior Inter-Services League with Army holding a narrow two-point lead in the standings.

Canadians have won four starts in the Edmonton Junior League, while Edmonton Athletic Club have three wins and two losses and are still within reaching distance of the Canadians. Maple Leafs and South Side are trailing.

Arrows in Hockey Win

VANCOUVER, Jan. 5 (CP).—Maurice Dalzell, of Trail, B.C., was the hero of the evening tonight when Vancouver Arrows defeated New Westminster Cubs, 3-1, in a Pacific Coast Hockey League fixture to go into the league lead by two points.

Dalzell rated top honors on his twin scoring feat of the third period which brought 1,500 fans howling to their feet. Both squads had scraped through two scoreless periods, with rival goal tenders, Al Rollins and Len Udell, pulling off super-hockey feats when Sonny McDonald broke the ice with a goal for the Cubs at 4.30 of the last stanza.

Ernie Dougherty evened it up in less than a minute and then Dalzell climaxed the evening with a one-two pair of punches at 17.06 and 18.18.

Vancouver meets Nanaimo Clippers in the coal city town tomorrow night.

Face Alpine Dairy

GEORGE "PORKY" ANDREWS

RALPH "POP" FAY

Star performers with Pat Bay Gremlins, Western Canada basketball champions who are slated to see action tonight at the Victoria High School gymnasium against Alpine Dairy of Seattle, Northwest A.A.U. champions for the past two seasons. The Sound City opposition looks ... to be imported this ... to oppose the stars airmen and ... of the maple court ... should witness a great battle. Game time is 8.30 o'clock, 30 minutes earlier than usual. Hudson's Bay and Unitys women's aggregations will meet in the preliminary at 7.30 o'clock.

New Football Loop Planned

DALLAS, Jan. 5 (AP).—The Trans-America Professional Football League is a settled fact and already has six cities enrolled, John F. (Chick) Meehan, head of the new circuit, said today.

Meehan announced before departing for Houston to confer with sports leaders there regarding a possible franchise in the league that Dallas, New York, Baltimore, Philadelphia, Los Angeles and Brooklyn had completed arrangements and met all requirements for berths.

"There is nothing tentative about our setup," the former Syracuse, Manhattan and New York City University coach said. "These six cities have already been granted franchises, have leased stadiums in which to play and are eager to start. Two other cities, Denver and Houston, may be added before the league begins operation." He added that Denver and Houston had reported prospects good for entering the loop.

Mobile X-Ray Unit to Start Work Here on Monday Morning

A mobile X-ray unit operated by Division of Tuberculosis Control of the Provincial Board of Health arrived here yesterday and will be moved to Oak Bay High School Monday morning for chest examinations of students.

Policemen, firemen, City Hall employees and aldermen will be exam- [illegible] o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The unit will also be set up at the Legislative Buildings, Victoria Machinery Depot Co. Ltd., Victoria High School, Yarrows, Ltd., and for the benefit of department store employees.

Harold C. Huggins, field worker of the British Columbia Tuberculosis Society, explained yesterday.

"This will mark the beginning of a survey to include 8,000 workers and a large number of school students.

"The survey is the latest in a long list of large-scale tuberculosis preventive measures conducted in British Columbia. The program was launched in December, 1943, and since that time 55,000 persons have been examined by traveling X-ray units.

"Units are equipped to take chest pictures at the rate of 60 to 70 per hour, right on the spot where sizable numbers of persons justify the means.

"British Columbia now has two mobile units, which were presented to the Provincial Board of Health by affiliated Christmas seal societies. The sum of $37,000 for the equipment was raised from the annual sale of Christmas seals.

SPECIAL REPORTS SENT TO PERSONS

"Surveys are wholly voluntary, and are given without cost to either individual or management. Every person x-rayed receives a confidential report of the examination. X-ray films will be interpreted here by Dr P Kincaid, medical director of the tuberculosis unit.

"Designed essentially as a screening process to detect tuberculosis in its early stages when the disease does not make itself apparent, and when it is most favorably and economically treated, mass chest X-raying has prevented hundreds from becoming advanced and serious cases.

"To be effectively treated, tuberculosis must be detected in its early stages, usually before definite symptoms appear.

"Under wartime stress, Canada is barely holding its own in the fight to control tuberculosis. The death rate from the disease in Canada in 1943 was 51.5 per 100,000 population. Indications are that the figure for [illegible] chiefly to the many problems which beset a nation at war.

"The Christmas seal campaign of the Victoria Kiwanis Club has contributed generously toward the purchase of the mobile X-ray equipment," Mr. Huggins concluded.

Hold Last Rites For J. E. Wilson

Last rites for the late Joseph E. Wilson, prominent Victoria businessman, who passed away Tuesday at 811 St. Charles Street, were held yesterday afternoon in St. John's Church.

Services, led by Bishop Harold E. Sexton and Rev. George Biddle, opened with the 23rd Psalm. Hymns sung were "Art Thou Weary" and "Abide With Me." A choir was in attendance. Thomas Jenkins was organist.

Premier John Hart represented the Provincial Government at the services.

Active pallbearers were John Cathcart, Charles W Geiger, Robert Terries, A. E. Bowen, George T. Hughes, P. Scutt and M K MacMillan.

Honorary pallbearers were Dr. H B Rogers, Robert W Gibson, Major D A Hoag, Col. G H Ogilvie, R H B Ker, A. C B Pitts, A. T. Goward and H G Garrett.

All pallbearers, both honorary and active, were either former or present employees of W & J. Wilson.

Born in Victoria nearly 78 years ago, the late Mr. Wilson is survived by his widow, one son, four daughters and six grandchildren.

Interment was made in the family plot in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Rat Infestation Reported Light

"Rat infestation in this area is comparatively light, and much credit is due to the measures taken by the city of Victoria in controlling rats," declares a report received by the city medical health officer from the Provincial Board of Health.

The report, based on a survey carried out by G. H. Dowding, official of the Department of Pensions and National Health, adds "The sanitary inspectors show intelligent application of rat control measures, and an official rat exterminator, P. W Fisher, has aided the citizens wherever the problem is severe."

Heaviest rat collections were made during the survey at piggeries and chicken farms on the outskirts of Victoria, the report says, although some specimens were trapped along the waterfront and in Beacon Hill Park.

Provincial Election Discussed by Members

Postponement of the Provincial election until after the war was advocated last night by C. J. Harrington, vice-president of the Victoria Junior Chamber of Commerce, at a meeting of the group in the Chamber of Commerce board room.

He outlined three reasons for his belief, namely, that such an election would involve tremendous financing; that 80 per cent of the people were in favor of the present coalition government; and that an election at this time would seriously disrupt business.

Arthur Baker claimed that if the United States could hold a great presidential election during wartime, British Columbia could handle a provincial election.

The war situation should occupy entire attention, Mr Harrington contended, and as it was, the present form of government suited the majority of the people.

A final decision on the question was held over until the next meeting.

W Mooney, president read letters of commendation from the Lions Club and the City Council which praised the "Use Your Vote" campaign, waged by the junior group prior to the last civic elections.

Accused Officer Freed at Nanaimo

NANAIMO, Jan 5 (CP) — Maj J Porin Campbell, R C E unit commander at Camp Nanaimo, was freed today when charges of retaining an army issue refrigerator for his own use were dismissed while he was still testifying.

Magistrate C. H Beevor-Potts commented while dismissing charges against the officer that it seemed to have become a common habit for officers to retain public and Government goods for their own use.

The magistrate termed this practice "a public scandal," but he said the military authorities alone were responsible for it. He could find no evidence to support the Crown's charges that the refrigerator was stolen.

Maj Campbell recounted to the court incidents where he had on his own authority loaned equipment from Government stores to civilians or civilian enterprises in emergencies. Headquarters of the Royal Canadian Engineers had been notified of these transactions and no objection had been raised.

Trial of W.O. William Morrell, second-in-command of the engineers unit, on three charges of theft of Government supplies was set for January 17.

Maj Campbell's trial was the second of three scheduled following Royal Canadian Mounted Police investigations at Camp Nanaimo. Capt John Laird was convicted of stealing [illegible] and [illegible] at the first trial and sentenced to six months in jail.

During the evening he conferred with a delegation of local labor leaders, headed by George Wilkinson, secretary of the Victoria and District Trades and Labor Council.

Airport Site Under Fire

Residents of Gordon Head district are not in favor of an airport there. This was the sentiment expressed by the majority present at a well-attended meeting in Gordon Head Hall last night, arranged by Councillor J. L. Hobbs, Ward Three, Saanich, to discuss the proposed site.

A large delegation from the Victoria Chamber of Commerce and members of the Greater Victoria aviation committee attended, and were introduced by Councillor Hobbs. Norman Bell, head of Ward Three Ratepayers' Association, was chairman.

H Wheeler, from the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, gave his experiences regarding the building of airports. Formerly of Whitehorse, Y.T., Mr. Wheeler stated he had helped to construct 25 airports in the Northwest, including one at Whitehorse which had been made possible by donations. So far, he said, more than 6,000 planes had used that airport on their way to Russia, and the people there had voiced no objection to the noise." No place on the continent needs an airport more than Victoria," he declared.

R. H. B. Ker, chairman of the aviation committee of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce, Alderman Burges J. Gadsden, chairman of the inter-municipal committee, and Archie Wills, representing the Chamber of Commerce delegation, also spoke for the proposed airport. Each pointed out the advantages of an airport on the Gordon Head site, the lack of any other suitable property, and the great need of Victoria for an airport to keep pace with the progress in aviation. Objections to the noise and the probable lessening of real estate values in the immediate vicinity were discounted by the speaker.

RESIDENTS RAISE MANY OBJECTIONS

The meeting was then thrown open for expressions of opinion and questions from the audience. Numerous objections were raised to the proposed airport by residents of the district. Noise, drop in property values and the utilizing of the land for an airport when it was needed for residential expansion were all voiced. The postwar use of the facilities at Patricia Bay were pointed out as not necessitating a new airport.

Contending that the Patricia Bay airport would probably be kept up by the Government and stating that the proposed Gordon Head airport would provide returning servicemen with employment, L. G Scott and T Alexander, Ward One councillor, both declared that progress dictated the need of an airport to serve Greater Victoria.

G Hamilton Harman, Mr Ker and Mr Wills replied to the questions from the audience.

Reeve E C Warren was the last speaker. He enlarged on the questions brought before the visiting delegation, declaring that the need was doubtful until the question of the disposal of the Patricia Bay airport had been decided. He had made a check on the time required to make the trip from the City Hall to the Gordon Head site and to Patricia Bay, and found a difference of only 36 minutes for the round trip, and felt it would make very little difference where the airport was situated.

Delegates representing the Greater Victoria Aviation Committee and Chamber of Commerce were Mr Harman, Major H Cuthbert Holmes, J V Johnson, Mr Ker, James Beatty, William Clark, Mr Wheeler, Mr Wills, E Mallek, George I Warren and W Sylvester. Alderman Gadsden, Councillors J P A Christensen and C Hallhwaite Esquimalt and Councillors T Alexander and Hobbs Saanich. J V. Johnson represented Oak Bay Municipality.

Urge Member of Legislature To Support Marine Highway

A suggestion that Hon. Norman W. Whittaker, M.L.A. for Saanich, sponsor the proposed marine highway around Saanich Peninsula, was made yesterday at a meeting of the Real Estate Board of Victoria, held in Spencer's dining-room.

Support of the Chamber of Commerce towards the project was assured by G Hamilton Harman, president. Other civic groups will be asked to back the proposed highway. The road, to encircle Saanich Peninsula, would prove a great benefit to the tourist trade, Mr. Harman stated.

W. O Wallace, chairman of a special committee investigating the possibilities of the proposed road, said he would like to see plans completed as soon as possible, and work commenced immediately after the war. Premier Hart, it was reported, had expressed approval of the proposal, and had advocated that work begin as soon after the war as possible.

It was noted that should Wards 5 and 6 secede from Saanich, none of the highway would pass through the municipality. It is expected the road will be a government project.

Several amendments to the Real Estate Agents' Licensing Act were [illegible] accompanying letter from Vancouver Real Estate Exchange assured the local group that efforts would be made to make the desired changes.

Correspondence from R W Mayhew M.P., informed the members that attempts to have section 33 of the Veterans' Land Act amended had been unsuccessful. It provides that no commission can be collected by real estate dealers selling land to returned men desirous of settling on farms.

Silent tribute was paid in memory of the late Joseph E Wilson, an associate member of the board.

Not to Interfere With Sentences

Commenting yesterday on the remark of Archbishop William M. Duke, of Vancouver, that British Columbia courts were too lenient in dealing with serious crime, Hon. R. L. Maitland, Attorney-General, declared that sentences whether light or heavy were a matter for the courts and he could not and would not attempt to interfere.

Archbishop Duke spoke of "robbery, thieving and breaking," and said liquor was the dominant cause of the "serious wave of crime which has been enveloping Vancouver."

The Attorney-General said conditions were no worse in British Columbia than elsewhere. He added that at present a great deal of "free money" was circulating, and when this happened liquor purchases increased.

In unorganized districts under his jurisdiction conditions were good, Mr. Maitland stated. "In the congested areas the local police have a more difficult problem," he added.

Finance—Commerce—Markets

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Jan. 5 (AP).—Assorted rails and industrials continued on the strong side of today's stock market, but six straight average advances to seven-year peaks inspired large-scale profit cashing which pursued numerous leaders to lower levels.

Inflation sentiment, based on long [illegible] cipal purchasing prop and talk of split-ups, mergers and stock dividends bolstered individual performers.

The Associated Press 60-stock composite was off .2 of a cent at 58.9, first recession since December 7. It was another of the broadest markets of the past year, 882 issues registering. Of these 415 were down, 340 up and 227 unchanged. Transfers of 1,798,330 shares compared with 1,826,740 Thursday.

DOW JONES' AVERAGES

Thirty industrials, 154.00, off .42.
Twenty rails, 49.83, up .40.
Fifteen utilities, 26.20, up .05.
Total sales, 1,798,330.

Toronto Stocks

TORONTO, Jan. 5 (CP).—A spurt of activity on the Toronto Stock Exchange today sent a number of gold, oil and industrial issues to new 1944-45 highs, with Vermilata Oil alone trading 220,000 shares, biggest turnover in the day's volume of close to 1,000,000 shares. The industrials index reached its highest point since 1937.

Sockeye Percentages Found Disappointing

VANCOUVER, Jan. 5 (CP).—Disappointing percentages of sockeye salmon were found on the important Rivers Inlet and Smith Inlet spawning beds in 1943-44, the British Columbia Fisheries Department said today in its annual British Columbia salmon spawning report.

Good supplies of sockeye were found in the Skeena River watershed and in the Naas and Lowe Inlet areas the seeding was satisfactory.

A "very considerable shortage" of chums was found on all the spawning grounds of the province, despite the fact the spawning of previous years justified the expectation of a reasonably good return in 1944.
